UAR Calls Parley

CAIRO (Reuters)—The National Assembly of the United Arab Republic called a special session today as storm clouds gathered in the Arab world over Iran's diplomatic recognition of Israel.

Floods Ravage Poland

WARSAW (AP)—A 30-foot high flood crest swept down the Vistula River and left thousands of acres of farmland and several cities in Southern Poland inundated today.

U.K. Will Be Told

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. has assured British authorities they always will be notified in advance of reconnaissance flights by American planes based in the United Kingdom, U.S. officials said today.

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton announced today that the government has agreed to "strengthen" the anti-discrimination provisions of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's bill of rights.

He made the announcement to a special Commons committee studying the rights legislation following strong appeals by Liberal members for such action.

Paul Martin (L-Exeter East) told the committee that teeth should be put into the bill to ensure that there is no discrimination in federal fields of jurisdiction against persons because of race, national origin, religion or sex.

He said he knew of at least eight instances where there had been discrimination against Negroes, including one in Ottawa.

Mr. Fulton said that in the light of representations to the committee by Liberal members the government had drafted an amendment "to strengthen the anti-discrimination provisions of the bill."

The amendment would write into the bill a declaration that rights and fundamental freedoms shall be enjoyed by Canadians "without discrimination by reason of race, national origin, religion or sex." It would also give Canadians the right to equality before the law.

Liberal members of the committee proposed an anti-discrimination clause Wednesday but it was rejected by a vote of 7 to 4. Mr. Fulton said the government was unable to accept the amendment in the form in which it was drafted. Today the Liberals submitted four additional amendments.

Mr. Fulton said the Liberal amendments seek to spell out in detail certain rights and freedoms. He said that such particulars should be included in specific federal statutes and not in an over-all bill of rights.

Inclusion in the bill of all the amendments proposed by the Liberals would make a "mockery" of the legislation. Some of the Liberal proposals also invaded provincial fields of jurisdiction he said.

'FREE CONGO' CRIES GREET UN CHIEF

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Cries of "long live free Congo" and "we demand a United Congo" greeted Dag Hammarskjöld today on his arrival in Leopoldville for a survey of the infant nation's grave ills.

The United Nations secretary-general found the young republic rapidly being pacified by UN forces but facing acute economic and political problems.

He hurried to Leopoldville from Brussels, where Belgian Premier Gaston Eyskens and other officials bluntly told him to keep hands off Katanga, the rich, secessionist province being policed by Belgian troops. (See page 9.)

Dief Orders Auto-Making Slump Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today a royal commission inquiry into the problems of the Canadian automobile industry, troubled by competition from European imports.

Names of the commissioners and their terms of reference will be announced next week, he told the Commons.

Manufacturers, workers and community leaders have all urged prompt government action to avert a serious crisis in the industry, warning that sagging business, more layoffs and greater unemployment lie ahead for the industry which employs 45,000 persons and has production valued at more than $1,300,000,000 a year.

Remedies they urged ranged from higher duty valuations on foreign cars to tax concessions to encourage overseas automakers to build plants in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the car industry is so important that there should be a comprehensive investigation of its various aspects.

Don't Hit The System —Bennett

OTTAWA (UPI)—British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett today warned Social Credit party workers that they would "get nowhere" attacking Canada's financial system. "Don't blame the financial system," Bennett advised. "Just tell the people that the Social Credit party will make it work in their interests. That is what we have done in British Columbia."

"I have no quarrel with the financial system or the people who operate it; they are just as fine people as are to be found in this room. But the fault lies with the federal government — the people who make the rules."

The British Columbia premier spoke to some 100 Social Credit delegates from all 10 provinces who met for a two-day national meeting. Their hotel convention hall was draped optimistically with banners claiming a Social Credit victory in a federal general election expected in 1962.

"Social Credit: Freedom with Security," one banner promised, while another proclaimed: "Social Credit in 1962 or more social debt."

National Leader Solon Low, who was leader of the Social Credit House of Commons group which was wiped out in the 1958 general election, chaired the gathering. The enthusiasm with which he was greeted was dampened when he announced that he would be unavailable to continue in the leadership for the next election campaign.

Low said he took part in the 1958 campaign against his doctor's advice and that he must retire to the ranks. But he said he would continue to work actively for the party.

Low attacked the Mackenzie King Liberals for having "stolen" the basic policies of Social Credit. In his policies of pensions and social payments, Low said, the late Liberal leader really had appropriated and put into practice the national dividend policy of Social Credit.

"He put spending power into the hands of the people; that is exactly what we advocated," Low told the convention.

'EASIEST JOB'

Bennett said that heading a Social Credit government was "The easiest job in the world." "You simply have your basic principles and adhere to them, then just go ahead and every day in every way things grow better and better," he said. "At least, that is the way things have been in B.C."

Looking ahead to a prospective British Columbia election, he said that Social Credit wanted to have an opposition, because it would rather have its opposition on the other side of the legislature than in its own party.

SOCREDS OUST NEWSMEN

OTTAWA (CP)—The Social Credit national convention today voted unanimously to exclude newspaper reporters from convention discussions on a new constitution and policy statement.

The step occurred without debate at the opening of the second session of the two-day convention.

TWO 'PROS' IN THEIR 40s

'Toughest Campaign In History'

CHICAGO (CP)—"This may be the closest political campaign in history," a subdued and humble Richard Nixon told reporters late Wednesday night after a cheering Republican national convention made official on a single perfunctory ballot what long had appeared inevitable.

The convention nominated Nixon to battle Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, picked as the Democratic presidential candidate on the first ballot at Los Angeles two weeks ago. Only a few Southern delegates showed any signs of wavering in the party's display of unity for Nixon.

Convention delegates got around to picking the vice-president by an almost-unanimous vote. It took four hours and nine minutes of hoopla and ceremony for the convention to give Nixon 1,321 votes—666 were needed for nomination—and Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona 10 votes. Ten determined Louisiana delegates insisted on voting for Goldwater, a right-winger, after he had withdrawn his name. Afterwards, the convention moved to nominate Nixon by acclamation.

PROFESSIONAL FIGHT

Thus in November it will be a battle for two 'pros' in their 40s—Nixon, a 47-year-old Quaker and a relatively poor, self-made politician, against Kennedy, a 43-year-old Roman Catholic from a wealthy and politically-experienced family.

'GREAT GOALS'—KENNEDY

HYANNISPORT, Mass. (UPI)—Sen. John F. Kennedy today congratulated Vice-President Richard M. Nixon on his nomination as the Republican standard bearer and said that with Henry Cabot Lodge as the GOP running mate, the Democrats would face a vigorous fight in the fall.

"I think both parties have pledged themselves to great goals," Kennedy said in a interview.

$9,000 for Passports Paid by U.S. Citizen

VANCOUVER (CP)—A retired Sacramento, Calif., businessman has testified he paid $9,000 to a Vancouver man to obtain passports for his two children.

Jew Ock Hing, 48, an American citizen, said he paid the money in three amounts of $3,000 each to Sun Tong, 71, of Vancouver.

He gave the evidence in San Francisco July 14 before Vancouver Magistrate Gordon Scott in a preliminary hearing into conspiracy charges against Sun Tong and lawyer G. E. (Ted) Gordon, 56, of Vancouver.

The two were committed for trial Wednesday on eight counts involving alleged forged documents and illegal entry of Chinese into Canada.

Documents Faked Say RCMP

MONTREAL (UPI)—The first of a series of arrests in a Chinese immigration racket began here today with detention of two Chinese operators of travel agencies.

RCMP said they had picked up W. Bruce Wong and Henry B. Chan. Both were scheduled for arraignment later today on 12 charges of forgery, perjury and uttering in connection with immigration documents and passport applications.

Wong faced nine charges, three under each classification, and Chan four, two for forgery and two for uttering.

Police said they expected simultaneous arrests would be made in other cities across the country, and that further arrests would be made when the investigation was completed.

Another source indicated that 78 persons, both Chinese and white, had been investigated across the country.

Secret Society 'Like Mafia'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says a Mafia-like organization known as Triad is controlling immigration racketeers that are behind the illegal entry into Canada of thousands of Chinese.

In an Ottawa dispatch the paper says while the organization is not involved in the smuggling of Chinese, it is believed to have taken a substantial slice off the top payments made to immigration racketeers who operated under its protection.

The Sun said the Triad organization turned up in investigations of the racket in Canada and Hong Kong.

"A high source said that Triad agents have been identified in the major Canadian Chinatowns, but that so far no evidence has come to light which would support criminal charges against them."

The organization was an underground revolutionary society in China prior to the overthrow of the Manchu Dynasty in 1911, the paper says. One of its leaders was Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, father of modern China.

It says Dr. Sun ordered Triad disbanded but criminal elements seized control and turned the organization into a Chinese Mafia.

CRIES OF HORROR GREET RETURN OF 'SACK'

'Swimming Pool Has More Shape'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It seems nearly everybody in this glamor-conscious town—from Zsa Zsa Gabor to Bob Hope—is taking a whack at the sack today.

Movietown's reaction to the house of Dior's new fashions—unveiled in Paris, sounded like a depth charge exploding in a kidney-shaped swimming pool.

And, the outraged glamor girls' cry, that's just what the new fashions resemble: Somebody's kidney-shaped swimming pool—only a swimming pool has more shape.

The Dior line—featuring bared knees and non-existent waist and bust lines—also left the male stars as hot as Elvis Presley's guitar.

A completely unscientific poll drew these comments:

Zsa Zsa Gabor—"Nobody in a sack ever caught a man. Of course, I don't think a woman should show everything she has... she should leave some things to the imagination and just let a few friends discover them."

Jerry Lewis—"I'm against any style that makes Marilyn Monroe look like a boy. My personal preference is for dresses that, when a girl walks, it looks like two little boys having a fight under a blanket."

Shirley MacLaine—"It'll be a big year for the farmers—the women will be able to eat anything they want for a year without worrying about their waist line."

Bob Hope—"They ought to put the potatoes back and forget the whole thing. A guy who takes a girl out is entitled to know where things are."

Jayne Mansfield—"Sack dresses are fine for a woman about eight months pregnant."

Jayne, a little more than eight months pregnant, is in a hospital awaiting her baby any day.

It 'pears all Nixon wants to do is take the vice out of the vice-presidency.

The dress designers insist that all wimmin have got to do is package the same amount o' goods into a shorter sack.

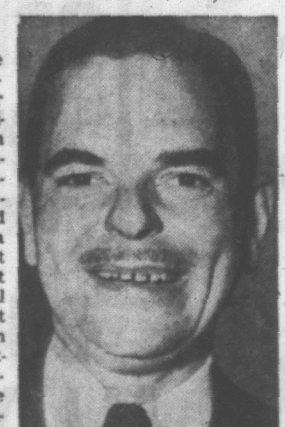

While Dief is investigating the auto parts industry he might take a look at his own rear vision mirror.

'TRUTH FIRST CASUALTY' IN MR. DEWEY'S TIRADE

By MAX FREEDMAN
Special to The Times

CHICAGO—An angry voice from the past, bitter over defeat, poured scorn on Senator Kennedy Wednesday night in accents of mingled indignation and contempt. It would have been a cruel speech at the very height of a political campaign. It was almost an

Max Freedman incredible attack in the middle of a national convention. Only one man—former Governor Thomas Dewey who lost so unexpectedly to Mr. Truman in 1948—could have made it. The speech is being given great significance by observers at the Republican convention as a sign of the campaign which Republican speakers, if not Mr. Nixon himself, will carry out between now and the voting in November.

Mr. Dewey said that Senator Kennedy has already disappointed his followers. In his first formal address he made a quite regrettable, smart-aleck attack on the president and the vice-president of the United States; while age alone is not an issue, "this irresponsible behavior" makes people wonder whether the senator really is grown up enough to be president.

Ever before that speech, Mr. Dewey went on, "you will re-

TORONTO—Ernest A. Tate, a man who wanted to emphasize his opposition to nuclear weapons, was fined $15 Wednesday for painting "Ban the Bomb" on the Ontario government's model fallout shelter in central Toronto.

The 26-year-old stationary engineer was also ordered to pay $35 for repainting the shelter to cover his message which was emblazoned three times on it.

Tate admitted he had read a lot about the effects of nuclear warfare before he painted his message July 1.

"If there was a cheerful or helpful message on it (the shelter), should it not stay?" Andrew Brewin, Tate's lawyer, asked J. H. Adams, deputy coordinator of civil defence for the Ontario department of planning and development.

"Why did you have to paint over the words 'Ban the bomb'?"

Mr. Adams said the painting was unsightly and not in keeping with the government's intention. He added that he could not really say what the government's intention was.

HOUSTON, Texas—A tavern owner called police Wednesday night and reported a "suspicious" character "who has been drinking nothing but water for four hours."

The man was taken to jail for questioning by a psychiatrist.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo and his aides, reported to be short of money for their North American visit, were said Wednesday to be getting personal financial help from the United Nations. The young republic ran into financial difficulties after it became independent of Belgian rule June 30.

LONDON—Queen Elizabeth, it was learned Wednesday, parlayed her love of horse racing into a novel bit of two-track watching Tuesday.

She attended the Goodwood meeting with Prince Philip and had a portable TV set installed in the royal box so that she could follow the action at the Redcar track in Yorkshire, 250 miles away.

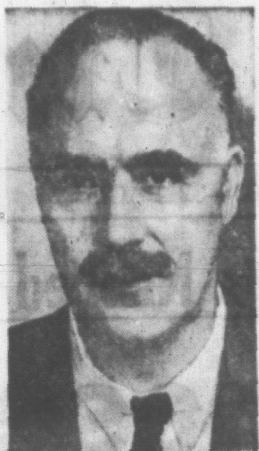

The Queen became so excited she pounded her knees with clenched fists as her aunt's horse won the Redcar feature event at 25-2 odds.

VANCOUVER—Mrs. Alphonse Breland phoned the city road department.

Two-year-old Johnny Breland and his two-year-old pal, Kevin Irwin, were stuck solidly in road-repair tar on West Eighth Avenue, one by his hands and knees, the other by the seat of his pants.

The road department advised using stove oil. It was applied, then a washing and a paddling and the boys were turned outside to play again. Where did they go? You guessed it...

BUXTON, England—Movie actor Trevor Howard got up at 5 a.m. Wednesday, drove 180 miles to play cricket here. He was out on the first ball which finished his batting for the day.

FORMER CCF MP Alistair Stewart

a Winnipeg chartered accountant, said Wednesday he has been approached by several groups urging him to stand for the party's national leadership. He said he has made no decision yet whether to let his name be put forward.

Crucial Vote In S. Korea

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—More than 10 million South Korean voters go to the polls Friday in the most crucial elections since the republic was founded 12 years ago.

For the first time the Democratic party is favored to win.

The caretaker government of Premier Huh Chung has promised fair and free elections. Charges of irregularities in the March 15 elections triggered demonstrations that forced former President Syngman Rhee to resign.

Rhee and his Liberal party had held power since the republic was born.

EAST GERMANY HIT BY FOOD SHORTAGE

BERLIN (UPI)—The growing food shortage in Communist East Germany has become so acute that farmers were urged today to work nights to harvest their crops.

Western observers said the food situation was so serious and morale so low that Communist leader Walter Ulbricht may be in danger of losing his job.

Communist press reports indicated the food crisis was caused by a virtual strike of farmers who were forced to join collectives but distribution facilities also appeared to have broken down.

Reports reaching West Berlin said everything from bread to meat was scarce with the situation varying from city to city.

'Friends Got Answers In Civil Service Exams'

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Acting state secretary Balcer said Wednesday he will look into a charge that the Liberals gave out answers in advance to friends writing civil service exams.

He said he would follow the "proper course" of checking into a charge by Georges Valade (PC-Montreal St. Marie) that exams were rigged to see whether a full investigation was warranted.

But Mr. Balcer pointed out that he couldn't order a full inquiry into "every little rumor" that comes up about civil service jobs.

The accusation sparked a fiery fight in the Commons — most of it in French.

When it was all over, the MP who made the original charge said he didn't want to accuse the civil service commission of improper conduct.

However, in his earlier statement he made a specific charge and disclosed the name of one government worker — Sibley Henry of Montreal—who "explained the method used by the former administration to get their friends into the civil service."

Valade said he was authorized to release Mr. Henry's name and details of the case.

Mr. Henry was classified under the Liberals as an employee of the Montreal ordinance depot. When a civil service competition was organized for the department, Mr. Henry was approached by an official and was given all the answers to the questions on the examination paper, said Mr. Valade. He did not identify the official.

The PC member also said the Liberals devised special examinations for personal friends to get them into the civil service.

Alexis Caron (L, Hull) and Lionel Chevrier (L, Montreal Laurier) promptly took up the issue. Mr. Caron called for a "complete investigation" of the charge which he said was based on hearsay.

Mr. Chevrier said that he has heard "silly rumors" such as the one put forward by Mr. Valade "but I have never seen the proof yet."

History of North Began Before 1957

Opposition Leader Pearson said Wednesday that Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton seems to think that northern Canada was discovered and explored not by such men as Franklin and Frobenius but by the Hon. Alvin Hamilton.

Mr. Pearson said in the Commons that no matter what Mr. Hamilton says Canadian history didn't begin in June, 1957, when the Progressive Conservatives took office. In his turn, Mr. Hamilton accused the former Liberal government of sitting idly by while Canadian resources fell into foreign hands.

The latest exchange in the three-year-long dispute between the two political parties over Prime Minister Diefenbaker's so-called "vision" of the north, described variously by the Liberals as a "mirage" and "nightmare," came during standby of the estimated expenditures of Mr. Hamilton's department.

Mr. Hamilton said the government is willing to go ahead with construction of a 400-mile railway to Great Slave Lake. It would be prepared to put up about $10,000,000 leaving some $55,000,000 to be spent by the railroads.

He said that if lead and zinc are not being mined on Great Slave by 1963 or 1964 Canada will have to import these products to keep the smelter going at Trail, B.C.

***

The Commons completed clause-by-clause study of the government's controversial amendments to anti-combines legislation. Third and final reading of the measure was put over, probably until next week.

OTTAWA WOULD AID MUNICIPALITIES

Low-Rate Loan Fund Proposed by Bennett

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal that the federal government make funds available for borrowing by municipalities at low interest rates was put forward by British Columbia Wednesday at the closing session of the Dominion-provincial fiscal conference.

In an interview following the conclusion of the conference, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said the proposal was one of a number he made during in-camera discussions of various provincial submissions to the conference.

GUARANTEE

"If the federal government would set up a loan fund for municipalities, school boards and hospitals at low interest rates, British Columbia would unconditionally guarantee repayment of principal and interest," he said.

The interest should be set at whatever rate the federal government had to pay to raise the money, less the amount the government gets back in taxes from bondholders.

LOW RATE

"I believe this would reduce the rate to municipalities to two or three per cent."

He said he was "very pleased" with the progress made during the three-day conference, first of a series to work out tax-sharing agreements between the federal and provincial governments.

Mr. Bennett said his Social Credit government had also pressed for the co-operation of the federal government in getting a broadly-based development program under way. B.C. had outlined a large number of capital works projects — highways, parks, forestry access roads — that the province wanted undertaken on a shared-cost basis.

NEEDED IN CANADA

Mr. Bennett said he believes shared-cost development programs, opposed by some of the other provinces, are needed in a federal setup like Canada's.

One thing B.C. wanted was new access roads to parks. They would give jobs to a large number of people and increase the revenue from the tourist industry.

The federal government gets the lion's share of revenue resulting from the tourist industry, so it is only fair it should share the cost of building the roads.

The Liberal Conservative

MR. NIXON IS REMARKABLE as a personality—the poor boy from a small California town who fought his way to the leadership of the Republican Party. He is equally remarkable as a symbol—the statesman who has given the Republican Party a new direction and rescued it from the old guard.

After the rapid events of the last few days, Mr. Nixon's election strategy is quite clear.

He knows that he cannot win the presidency on the record of the Eisenhower Administration, though he is himself a major part of the record. He knows, too, that he cannot beat Senator Kennedy on a stand-pat, conservative policy, though he calls himself a conservative in domestic affairs; a liberal internationally.

Therefore, he has shifted the centre of the party's political gravity to the left. He still presents himself as a conservative, but as a conservative more liberal than the President and more responsible than his opponent.

This new synthesis doubtless has been in Mr. Nixon's mind for a long time but it was openly proclaimed only when, in a characteristically bold move, he came to terms with Governor Rockefeller, the acknowledged leader of the Republican left wing.

While Mr. Rockefeller could not win the party nomination, his views have largely dominated the party's platform. It would be quite wrong, however, to imagine that the outward change in the platform, the move toward a more liberal policy, represents any sudden change in Mr. Nixon's thinking. Anyone who has read his speeches during the last year—discreetly worded because he was a member of the Eisenhower Government—can see that his earlier views were altered some time ago.

At the beginning, when he ran for Congress in California, Mr. Nixon was a conservative of conservatives, who denounced the New Deal and the whole Roosevelt revolution as dangerous socialism, smacking almost of communism. Not only has he accepted all the reforms of the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations but now proposes to expand them. Not only has he accepted high governmental spending but he proposes to expand that, too. And his policy on civil rights matches Mr. Kennedy's bid for the northern Negro vote.

Apparently the two political parties are basically divided in principle. Actually the gap between them is narrow and has been reduced by Mr. Nixon's growing liberalism.

It is difficult for Americans, impossible for foreigners, to read his lonely mind but there is no mystery about Mr. Nixon's strategy. Knowing that reliable Republican voters are a minority of the electorate, he is striking for the great mass of independent voters in the centre or somewhat to the left of centre who certainly would support the Democratic Party if Mr. Nixon appeared as merely the heir of a conservative President, determined to maintain his predecessor's policies.

His own changed thinking, now written into the party platform, brings him pretty close, in fundamentals, to Senator Kennedy and perhaps the decisive issue of the election will be only the public's judgment between two men rather than two policies. Both are young, experienced and able but no one knows in advance what kind of president either of them would make. And that has been true of every candidate from Washington onward.

Sure Road to Higher Taxes

IF THE DEMANDS PLACED before the federal-provincial conference by Mr. Frost and other premiers are accepted—even if only half the increases they ask from Ottawa are granted—there can be only one result. The Canadian taxpayer will have to pay higher taxes.

No other foreseeable revenue increase will offset the amounts the provinces seek. If Mr. Fleming accedes to the demands, or comes anywhere near them, his budget will be thrown out of balance when the larger provincial allotments are paid.

There is no hope that increases from Ottawa will lower the taxes imposed by provincial governments on their own residents. Provinces spend what they can get.

A clear example is furnished in British Columbia. The Federal Government this year will contribute $23,180,000 to hospital insurance. Before federal contributions were made the present government had increased the provincial sales tax from 3 per cent to 5 per cent. The extra was to cover costs of hospital services. Ottawa's later contribution has not eliminated or reduced that added 2 per cent.

It may be adroit to try to convince the people of various provinces that their burdens will be eased by more money from Ottawa. Residents of provinces are scarcely so simple-minded that they will think they are not Canadian taxpayers. The hand that goes into their pocket may be attached to an arm in Ottawa, rather than in a provincial capital. The pocket remains the same.

What the provinces are asking is simply that Mr. Fleming assume the unpopularity of the tax-collector while provincial premiers and governments pretend they have nothing to do with the higher demands from Ottawa on Canadians—who also live in the provinces.

Chance for Young Ambassadors

AT WILLIAM GOODENOUGH House in London's Mecklenburgh Square a graduate student from Canada sits down to dinner with a graduate student from Tibet. A young woman from Australia rubs shoulders with another from Africa. A Fulbright fellow from the United States passes the salt to a subsidized student from India.

They dine together, live together, enjoy the amenities and intellectual pursuits available in this excellent home-away-from-home which private British donors have created for Commonwealth and other young people who wish to pursue their studies in the British capital. The building is a tangible expression of thanks from Britishers for the help they received from other countries during the war.

The intermingling of the different nationalities—all represented by highly intelligent young people—is a form of diplomacy that leads to wider international understanding.

The same situation exists elsewhere in the world. Now the Institute of International Education, Inc., has announced that scholarships are being distributed under the Inter-American Cultural Convention which will permit graduate study in 17 Latin American countries. To what degree Canada participates in this scheme is not clear. Yet it seems that this country should enter such a project wholeheartedly. As members of the Western Hemisphere, we know far too little about the people south of the Rio Grande.

Some Canadians visit Mexico on holidays. Some have business appointments in Central and South American centres. By and large, however, our knowledge of the countries is limited to particular vogues in popular music and newspaper accounts of government instability and revolution.

Perhaps we should make a greater effort to have more of our university graduates take advanced study in these lands to learn at first hand what the people and institutions are like. They could also do a highly valuable job in letting Latin Americans know what Canadians are like—and there could be few better ambassadors than those who have justified scholarships in such countries.

Fastest Gun in Piccadilly

THE WESTERN WRITERS OF America, at their seventh annual convention recently, must have started a large part of their public by picking a London, England, novelist as the best writer of authentic western historical fiction of the year.

John Prebble's "The Buffalo Soldiers" was selected as the most outstanding work of its kind.

This may not be as unusual as it seems at first glance. Andre Maurois did a rather expert job on English personalities, though he was a Frenchman.

We hope, however, that the Prebble success in using a Western vehicle, won't lead the hacks of the Western to introduce a London locale for their future horse opera. We'd hate to have the posse gallop up Regent Street, along Oxford, "to cut 'em off" at Marble Arch.

LOOSE ENDS

The Cannibals Merely Eat Him

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

"ONCE every four years," the official guide in Washington, D.C., explained to the visiting cannibal chief from inner Borneo, "the United States selects two men for a unique honor. This summer they are receiving the highest privileges of this democratic nation, the undying gratitude of their fellow Americans from coast to coast. You are fortunate indeed to be here at this time and see for yourself how public service is rewarded in a generous land."

"I warmly appreciate the opportunity," the cannibal chief remarked, "but precisely how is this reward bestowed?"

"Well, to begin with," said the guide, "the two objects of our reverence and affection are each permitted to enjoy the pleasure of a great gathering, called a convention, at which they are free to stay up all night for an entire week, shaking hands with thousands of their admirers, having their photographs taken in awkward postures, making speeches before the television cameras, arranging tricky alliances with their quarrelsome supporters, soothing their defeated rivals, devising policies to save the world and generally having the time of their lives."

"In Borneo," said the cannibal chief, "we have a similar sort of procedure but not, of course, on such a civilized scale. Our conventions take a simpler form, a few chiefs meeting in a bamboo hut over a modest meal of missionaries, but the purpose is identical."

"OUR conventions," the guide went on, "are only the start of the fun. Once selected, our two honored leaders are permitted to do virtually as they please, regardless of cost. For some three months until November they are freed of work altogether in one long, uninterrupted holiday."

"To acknowledge the people's admiration they have only to make three or four speeches a day, to sleep upright in airplanes for an hour or so between cities, to parade down every main street amid the cheers of the multitude, to flatter the local celebrities, kiss the babies, praise the mothers, eat indigestible banquets, wear cowboy hats or Indian headdresses and keep smiling all the time for the photographers. In short, they live the carefree life of Riley."

"Ah, yes, I well remember Riley," said the cannibal chief. "He was a missionary and quite delicious."

"But even the three-month gala of unbridled joy," said the guide, "is still only the beginning. In November we choose the more popular of the two and give him a final reward."

"And what is that?" asked the cannibal chief.

"Our chosen man," said the guide, "is moved into a splendid white mansion, provided with servants and every kind of luxury, protected from public interference and required merely to administer the nation, command the armed services, manage his political party, appoint officials, draft legislation, fight with the Congress, supervise expenditures, deal with a crisis or two every morning and meet the press every week to answer the abuse of his enemies."

"TRULY," the cannibal chief observed, "an ideal existence. How I envy your man."

"That is not all," said the guide. "We have also arranged entertainment for his spare time lest he become bored with too much leisure. When the day's work ends at about seven in the evening he is entitled to retire and study the secret reports from Cuba, Moscow and Peking, the national budget, the unemployment figures, the gross national product, the critical newspaper dispatches of Mr. Max Freedman and other light reading matter until dawn, when he arises refreshed and invigorated for serious business. Nothing is allowed to disturb his tranquility."

"If despite these precautions, he finds time hanging heavy on his hands he can take a vacation and visit Europe, Asia or Latin America and hear millions of foreigners welcoming him or inviting him to go home, as the case may be. And then, if all else fails, he can meet Mr. Khrushchev and, in a friendly way, discuss the imminent extinction of all human life if either of them should happen absent-mindedly to push the button: 'I can tell you we don't grudge our man every delight imaginable.'"

"In our inferior culture," the cannibal chief admitted, "we cannot hope to equal your enlightened methods but we accomplish the same result more expeditiously, and with rather more compassion. When we have selected our man we simply eat him. For we are a merciful people."

THE PRESIDENT AT CHICAGO

For Eisenhower . . . A Crown of Glory

By MAX FREEDMAN

THEY crowned President Eisenhower with glory at the Republican Convention Tuesday night. The cheers of Chicago replaced the jeers often heard in Washington. Yet even in this tour of triumph there was no suggestion by Mr. Eisenhower that he had come to the convention merely as the party leader. At all times he remained the President, rather remote from the asperities and crudities of the political battle, and sensitive always to the honor and strength of the American people. Perhaps in the process he also succeeded in being the best politician in the United States.

Contrast to Truman

There was nothing for example to remind the delegates of Mr. Truman's rather strange concept of the function of a President at a party convention. In 1952 Mr. Truman exerted all the influence at his command to persuade Mr. Stevenson to become the candidate; four years later he divided the convention by his support of Governor Harriman against Mr. Stevenson; and this year he refused to attend the Democratic convention at all because he did not like the way things were going.

Mr. Eisenhower never tried to pick his successor. Nor did he speak in anger against Governor Rockefeller when his own record in Washington was under attack. Even as the convention continued to debate the platform on civil rights Mr. Eisenhower reverted to his familiar role of the unifier and the conciliator. He welcomed this diversity of opinion provided it would lead to unity of action in the campaign itself.

In the hands of a dignified statesman it is possible for silence to be a more terrible weapon than contempt. Mr. Eisenhower proved that fact once again. He scorned to refer by name to the Truman administration or to the Kennedy-Johnson ticket chosen by the Democrats. From the incredible eminence of the presidency he contented himself with warning the American people that he found it hard to "restrain his indignation" as he listened to misrepresentations about the American economy or the American defence program. As they listened to his measured and grave words many voters must have asked themselves with new urgency whether it is wise to trust the government to what Mr. Eisenhower described as "inexperienced" hands.

Democrat Mistake

After Mr. Eisenhower's address many veteran observers have again been troubled by the doubt that the Democrats have mistaken the mood of the nation in making such an anxious inventory of America's military shortcomings. If this miscalculation has in fact been made then Senator Kennedy will soon find it necessary to recast his campaign strategy. Mr. Nixon will never say that he is satisfied with the country's present achievements. He will argue instead that these achievements provide the foundation for a more resolute program to meet the challenges of the imperious future. Surely this is better logic and better politics than arguing, as the Democrats have too often done, that the country has been placed in a vulnerable position because Mr. Eisenhower—of all people—decided to put the budget ahead of the nation's need in defence and security.

Everything that has taken place at this Republican convention has confirmed the dominant place that foreign affairs and defence will have in the campaign. This means that Mr. Eisenhower himself will campaign for Mr. Nixon, since these are the two issues on which he has spent most of his effort since he became the President. Even before he spoke he knew that Mr. Nixon would be the presidential candidate because Mr. Rockefeller has formally withdrawn and had pledged the New York delegation to Mr. Nixon. Yet even at this late stage he refrained from intruding in the politics of the convention.

Preference

This aloofness gives him greater power in the campaign. He now can say with at least a measure of detachment that he had nothing to do with Mr. Nixon's selection and that after a comparison between the two presidential candidates he has no hesitation in preferring him to Senator Kennedy. He will be able to make this declaration with persuasive sincerity because he really feels this way; and an endorsement from the heights carries far more weight than the almost mechanical loyalty of the party leader.

Mr. Eisenhower drew another area of battle when he challenged the Democrats to fight their campaign for greater economic growth by advocating the use of federal funds and the more concentrated use of governmental projects. By contrast Mr. Eisenhower placed the greatest reliance on the free operation of the American economy, with the Federal Government intervening only to help distressed regions or to assume burdens too heavy for local authorities. This contrast is made more effective when Mr. Eisenhower is able to show that under his leadership the American economy showed steadier gains than under the Truman policies, except under the stimulus of war.

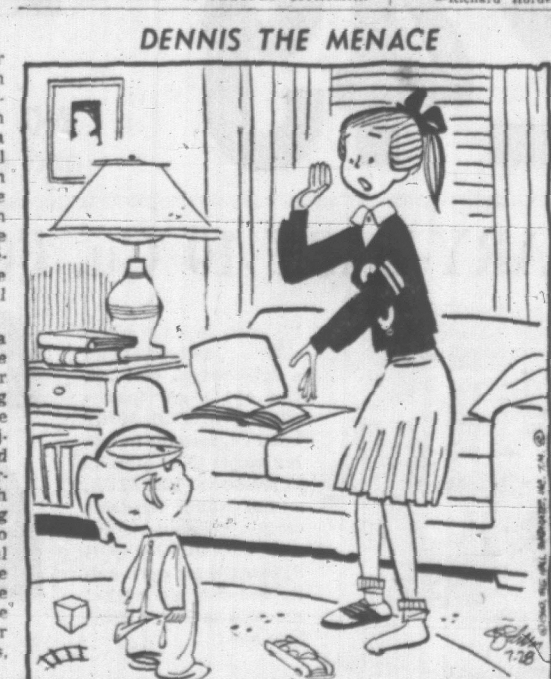

Once again, as in the issue of defence, it is a matter of emphasis and of presentation rather than of objectives.

The Democrats have a powerful case but they may spoil it by over-stating it. It is very easy to sound like a second-class politician in trying to prove for partisan advantage that the United States has become a second-class nation.

Great and Good Man

One has to leave Washington to discover that what is weakness at the centre of government is often regarded by the nation as a special kind of strength and dignity. In Washington, where observers are too close to events to have the wisdom of perspective, Mr. Eisenhower often is criticized for failing to do battle with his critics in congress. Perhaps the American people like this aloofness, and not least because they remember the over-eagerness of Mr. Truman to join issue with every trumpeting critic. One million people lined the streets of Chicago to cheer Mr. Eisenhower. They were not cheering a great president or even a good president.

The flaws on the Eisenhower record are too vast to be forgotten or forgiven. But they were cheering a great and a good man, a dedicated American patriot who often by sheer force of character makes many of his political opponents look pitifully small as they raise their voice in raucous criticism.

Whipping the Bill of Rights

By MAURICE WESTERN

MR. DIFENBAKER'S Bill of Rights was subjected to cruel, inhuman and degrading treatment by the first expert witness to appear before the select committee of the House of Commons.

Professor Frank Scott of McGill University did manage to find in the Bill a few phrases deserving of faint praise. But he could not be shaken from his basic position: better no measure than the Prime Minister's measure. When pressed by Conservative members with the argument that even an imperfect Bill might be desirable as a first step, Mr. Scott voiced the fear that the first step might well prove the last for a long time. Once passed the Bill would simply relieve Parliament of any sense of urgency about legislation on human rights.

Instruction to Courts

Mr. Scott interpreted the Bill as essentially an instruction to the courts in the interpretation of federal statutes. The theory is that if Parliament inadvertently violates rights by some future legislation, judges will rule that no such infringement can have been intended in the absence of specific reference to the Bill of Rights. Not so, argued Mr. Scott; the latest opinion will be held to dominate.

Conservatives have argued that a constitutional amendment would be as vulnerable as the present statute to attack by later Parliaments. Mr. Scott, however, noted an essential difference. While Parliament could reverse either, a constitutional amendment would have this advantage: so long as it endured, it would clearly invalidate statutes infringing the specified rights.

Resort to London

Mr. Scott saw nothing "un-Canadian" in resort to the British Parliament for his proposed amendment. As matters stand, that Parliament is part of our constitutional machinery. Moreover, the difficulty about securing prior agreement with the provinces need not be a barrier to effective action.

The Canadian Parliament could approve an amendment binding itself in federal matters—and include a clause permitting provinces at will to bind themselves to the provisions. Some would do so immediately; others would be pushed in that direction by public opinion. By this means comprehensive safeguards could be achieved without violating provincial rights and without necessity of a joint federal-provincial amendment.

As for the present Bill, Mr. Scott complained that it lacked "teeth." It affirmed the right to protection of law without discrimination. But it did not make discrimination a punishable offence. This Parliament had the right to do by virtue of its exclusive jurisdiction in criminal law.

War Measures Act

There has been much criticism of Section 6 of the measure which preserves the power of the Government in wartime to limit freedoms (for example, to revoke the citizenship of naturalized Canadians) under the War Measures Act. Mr. Fulton argued in the House that the amended Citizenship Act provided only a single ground (fraudulent misrepresentation) for revocation as compared with six in the old Act. But, argued Mr. Scott, there is no protection for the citizen here. Once the War Measures Act is proclaimed, the Government can add any grounds at any time by simple order-in-council.

Some Quebec members have expressed concern that Section 2, which sets out rights and freedoms, may be an encroachment on provincial powers over property and civil rights. Mr. Scott brushed aside such suggestions. The section, in his view, merely declares the beliefs of Parliament; it does not enact new law. This appears to be the ruling opinion on both sides of the House.

MARKED for READING DISAGREEABLE

It seems to me there are two sides to the challenge of feeding a vastly increased number of human animals. The technical one of growing the food—and I would suggest that this is the side least likely to cause difficulty. The other is that, of all the animals on the earth, man is the most disagreeable and ill-mannered, and it is this characteristic that makes the even distribution of food to him such a problem.

'Frightening Moral Slump'

MR. Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States and a man now 85, has called upon his fellow Americans to do something about the "frightening moral slump" which he sees in his country.

Stott

He attributes the slump to Communist influences, eggheads, fellow-travellers and beatniks. He says the United States needs to regain pride in its heritage—a rebirth of a great spiritual force which has been impaired by cynicism and weakened by foreign infections.

Mr. Hoover is no stranger to "frightening moral slumps" in his country. When he was president that slump had progressed to the point where Al Capone could set up an underworld empire. Mr. Hoover stayed long enough in the White House—though just long enough—to see the rackets czar put in prison.

Those were the days when the mobsters shocked the world with such disregard for law as the St. Valentine's Day massacre. Seven men in the O'Banion crowd were mowed down by machine-gun fire in a Chicago northside garage in that atrocity. And though "Bugs" Moran, another Capone rival, said "Only the Capone gang kills like that," the top man was not convicted for that or similar killings. He went to jail later for income tax evasion.

The existence of such figures, Capone, Moran, Johnny Torrio, Colosimo, "Lefty" Louis, "Gyp" the Blood, and the organized vice and crime they represented surely was evidence of a pretty serious moral slump. Yet Capone called himself "a businessman" dispensing only what many wanted—liquor outlawed by the 18th amendment.

It seems obvious in retrospect that the mobs could not have flourished as they did had the public been thoroughly aroused. When the appropriate forces of the law were marshalled, with the people behind them, the mobsters lost their dominance. The same applied in the fight game in a battle not yet ended. The mobs moved into what is sometimes loosely called the "manly art." What they did to it is a matter of shoddy record.

It is very easy to sit smugly in Canada and point to these "moral slumps" in the United States. It is easy enough to blame our neighbors for many of our own troubles—juvenile delinquency presumably inspired by the violence and loose morality portrayed on screen and in fiction from American sources.

The simple fact seems to be, though, that moral slumps cannot proceed to any great depth in an environment which won't stand for them.

If we weren't so lazy, if we weren't so cynical, if we weren't so ready to let somebody else look after the mess, a better tone of morality could be established here and everywhere else.

Not that the definition of "morality" shouldn't undergo a pretty careful scrutiny itself. A lot of our "morals" aren't much more than the accretion of social conventions that don't stand up too well to examination.

But if we are ever able to establish what is moral and what is not, we won't do much to encourage the desirable unless we show a little more energy and integrity in our approach to it.

We make a fine show of indignation when somebody exposes corruption, payola, graft and influence peddling. When the sensational expose has run its course, how often do we give the incidents a thought?

How often, when a crooked politician is nailed, do we sum up the issue with a cynical "So what? He's a politician, isn't he? His crime was getting caught."

How often do we refuse to act against some influence which is harmful because we aren't willing to expose ourselves to the discomfort that involvement might entail?

How long are we going to sit fat and comfortable in our easy chairs and put up with slumping moral values because it's too much bother to stir ourselves?

How far can any of us go in blaming Communist influences, eggheads and beatniks for doing something we're too lazy to counteract? Mr. Hoover, who is considerably my senior, may have the answer. If he has it isn't apparent yet.

LONDON LETTER

Taxing Britain's Bookies

LONDON—I had always thought that as regards addiction to horse racing no other country came near Britain. But I learn now that this is definitely not so.

On the flat there are roughly 2,500 races annually here. But in the U.S.—32,000!

Even if one takes into consideration the fact that in the U.S. the race promoters are catering to a much bigger population and multiply the British figure by three to bring it onto a per capita basis it would mean that Britain had a mere 7,500 races to the U.S. 32,000.

And in the matter of stakes, racing is much more lucrative for owners in the U.S. than here.

What has brought this topic up is the report of the Peppiatt Committee, set up last November to make recommendations as to how off-course bookmakers can be made to give financial support to the sport they live off.

The plan suggested by the committee and likely to come into effect in 1962 calls for a levy on bookmakers, graded according to their profits. In total it would mean about $3,250,000 contributed by the bookmakers each year for the general good of racing.

But those two most important racing bodies, the Jockey Club and the National Hunt, feel that the committee is letting the bookmakers off a bit lightly. They would like to have seen the bookmakers cough up $8,000,000 annually.

To what use should the loot from the bookies be put?

The Peppiatt Committee recommends three main ways of distributing it, and this is where the comparison with U.S. racing comes in.

First—breeding. Far too much of Britain's best stock is being bought up by the Americans and a percentage of the money should be allocated to keep such horses here.

Secondly, increases in prize money haven't kept up with the greatly increased cost of maintaining stables and the owners should be helped by having the stakes made more attractive.

And thirdly, a thought for the poor racegoer. Many—in fact the majority—of Britain's race courses are in a sadly run-down condition, so much so that they can't raise money on their properties for improvements. Part of the bookies' contribution would go for better amenities.

Guard Native Trees on Fill-In

A word of warning if you are thinking of filling and levelling a building lot on which there are already native trees which you would like to save—don't fill in around the tree trunks.

The bark of a tree and the layers immediately beneath it are of entirely different textures and functions to the portions normally below ground.

When soil is heaped around a tree trunk after it has reached maturity, the bark will begin to decompose and the functions of the layers of cells beneath the bark are disrupted.

Within a year or so, according to the kind of tree, the foliage begins to wither and die, the branches put out no new growth, and the tree dies.

This summer an instance has occurred on Burnside Road where a small natural ravine was filled in around fairly large Douglas firs. The original idea may have been to preserve the trees permanently on the building lot which has now been made level with the road. But this summer the trees are completely browned-off and dry.

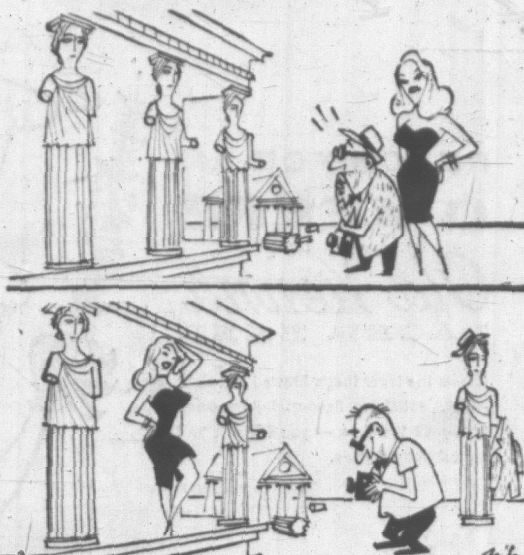

If it is necessary to put in a fill where there are trees, which you wish to preserve, stone or brick "wells" must be constructed around the trunks to keep the fill from getting within at least a foot or so of the bark.

Should the trees be of sufficient value in the scheme of things on your property, it would certainly pay to consult either a tree expert, an experienced grower of trees, or a landscape man experienced in the trees of this area.

'Gross Interference' Soviet Reply to Ike

LONDON (AP) — A Soviet broadcast charged today that American President Eisenhower's proposal to hold world-wide elections to choose between communism or a free democratic system was gross interference in the internal affairs of other nations.

"It is difficult to say whether there is more demagoguery or cynicism in this challenge," said a Moscow radio commentator in an English-language broadcast.

"In any case it is permeated with more than enough demagoguery and cynicism."

The broadcast beamed to North America went on: "The president's proposal is aimed at forcing a humiliating check on the national self-dependence of other nations. One may ask who gave the president the right to interfere so grossly in the internal affairs of other countries and hypocritically take upon himself the task of caring for other nations?"

De Gaulle To Meet Adenauer

PARIS (Reuters) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will confer here this weekend with President de Gaulle, a government spokesman said Wednesday.

Adenauer, accompanied by his foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano, will arrive by plane Friday morning and drive straight to de Gaulle's official country residence for the weekend talks.

It is understood the chief object of the meeting will be to plan close political co-operation among the six nations of the European Common Market—France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

This could have important repercussions in the world diplomatic arena. Hitherto, the six-nation group concentrated on economic rather than political matters.

There are no signs de Gaulle wants to establish a supra-national political organization for the six nations.

It is known, however, that he is dissatisfied with the type of loose co-operation at present in shaping Western policy inside NATO.

Elk, Beaver Lake Beaches Admission Charge Studied

Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks administrator W. H. Warren told the committee.

LIFEGUARD RESTORED

Committee members added to the prospective deficit by ordering necessary health and safety measures. A lifeguard at Eagle Park laid off last week in a cost-saving move was rehired. Chemical toilets at the northwest end of Elk Lake will be replaced.

Victoria and Saanich councils will be asked to chip in an extra $1,500 each to keep the committee's maintenance budget in the black for the rest of the year.

But the desperate committee plans to study methods of finding a new source of revenue to help provide the money for larger budgets in future.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay suggested that since the beaches were used by Esquimalt and Oak Bay residents too, those municipalities should be asked to contribute towards the committee's budget.

"That's been tried many times but it's just no use," said Coun. George Austin.

"Well, then, is there any way certain minimum charges could be made," replied Ald. Ramsay. "If we charged a nominal amount, say 10 cents a head, it sure would make a difference."

Several committee members suggested it might be more practical to charge a parking fee for cars than to charge an admission price to all bathers. Charges for large picnics also could be considered as well as coin-operated toilets.

Ald. A. I. Curtis, seconded by Ald. Austin, moved that the whole question of admission charges should be studied as a possibility for next season.

POLAND CONCERNED

Prussia Return To W. Germany?

WARSAW (Reuters) — Poland disclosed today that it has asked 13 NATO countries to clarify their commitments toward West Germany following a recent statement by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that East Prussia may be restored to West Germany.

The Polish foreign ministry said the request was made in identical notes to Canada, the United States, Britain, France and other NATO powers with the exception of West Germany and Portugal.

The notes ended with a four-point questionnaire seeking clarification of each recipient's attitude to the West German chancellor's statement, made at a rally of East Prussian refugees at Duesseldorf July 10.

East Prussia now is divided between Poland and the Soviet Union. Adenauer told the rally that "if we stand firm with our allies... East Prussia will be restored."

The notes said that only President de Gaulle of France has clearly and publicly expressed approval of the Oder-Neisse frontier between Poland and East Germany.

The facts "irrefutably controvert" the argument of Western governments that Adenauer and his government did not share the view of West German revisionist circles on the Oder-Neisse question, the notes said.

"It is now completely clear to everyone that the revisionist territorial claims are a part of the official program of the West German government."

In London, a foreign office spokesman said Britain has no secret obligations to West Germany and is consulting with other NATO members who received the note about the Polish questionnaire.

MOUNT ETNA BOILS AGAIN

CATANIA, Sicily (Reuters) — Both craters of Mount Etna volcano were exploding every 10 minutes and shooting vapors and red-grey sand 1,800 feet into the air throughout Wednesday.

The present activity, which started Monday night with showers of red-hot rocks, came 10 days after the volcano erupted with an ear-shattering explosion.

The July 17 eruption showered ships and towns up to 30 miles away with ashes and rocks. Local villagers panicked and fled as fragments of lava as large as buses crashed down.

WINNIPEG TO MONTREAL

Bombs by Mail For Businessman

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal police said Wednesday they are investigating two shipments of home-made bombs and threatening letters to a prominent city businessman. They declined to release his name.

The bombs, apparently put together by an expert, were shipped to the man from Sherbrooke, Que., and Winnipeg during the past two years.

GIRL GETS POLIO

PRINCE GEORGE — A 12-year-old girl whose father died of polio last week has contracted the disease.

Margaret Morrissey is in an iron lung in hospital here with severe paralysis. Her 49-year-old father, Dermot, was the city's second polio fatality this year.

The first bomb was in a suitcase. It was made up of 21 dynamite sticks and a fuse. An accompanying note read, in part: "If you think this is a joke try lighting the fuse."

The second bomb arrived by express about two weeks ago. It was a zippered plastic bag encased in a cheap fabric suitcase. Inside the plastic bag were three dynamite sticks and detonator.

Shipped from Winnipeg, the second bomb was sent by a shipper identified as Hunter. Investigation failed to turn anyone who shipped explosives.

The plastic bag and the suitcase have been turned over to CNR police who are trying to trace their purchase. Investigation is continuing in Winnipeg to turn up the shipper.

Oil Business Can Prove Tricky

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

You have to be fleet, fox and fortunate in the oil business.

Just ask Ralph Farris, principal in Magna Pipeline, Charter Oil and Northern Ontario Natural Gas.

Charter Oil and four other companies—Canadian Col. Hal Malone, Lleries Resources, Pacific Petroleum, Standard of California and Imperial Oil—began exploring for petroleum in the Gulf Islands as far back as 1948.

They put down a test hole on Satuya Island to the 4,000-foot level. The structural upheaval was so intense they made little progress, geologically, and were left with a dry hole. The test gave them enough data to consider further tests.

Other likely areas were selected. The team went to work and acquired rights on nearly 180,000 acres.

Two of the member companies thought the group should go a step further. Specifically they had eyes for 2,000 acres of Indian reserve land on Salt Spring.

Negotiations were worked out between the companies and the Indians. The latter agreed, through the Indian agent, to make the 2,000 acres available for drilling by auction.

The big day arrived and the five-company group expected to be notified that its bid of $1 per acre had been accepted.

Here Mr. Farris takes over: "The phone rang. But not with the news we expected. We were outbid by Dome Petroleum Ltd.—I don't know where they heard about the auction but they had—was in."

"Seems they bid $4 per acre which made our bid look sick."

At first, says Mr. Farris, the team of companies felt like kicking themselves where it hurts most.

"But no matter how many times we went over it," says Mr. Farris, "we still felt we couldn't bid more than $1 per acre for wildcat land. That's all it is."

Having made one miscalculation, Mr. Farris took steps to avoid a second. He contacted Dome Petroleum, told them his team had the rights to 180,000 acres of land in the area.

His move paid off. "They didn't agree outright but I think you'll see Dome joining with us in further exploration."

In the second, the companies plan to go to 8,000 or 9,000 feet under conditions more geologically desirable than the Satura experiment.

"That will have to wait awhile. Mr. Farris, together with Tom Ingledew, plans to spend a week at the British Insulated Industries Callander plant in an attempt to sign a contract for the purchase of unique flexible pipe. Magna proposes to use the pipe in its underwater gas pipeline from the mainland to Vancouver Island."

Public Utilities Commission has given Magna until Oct. 1 to sign the contract. All told the pipeline is a $16,000,000 project.

WORLD'S LARGEST ASPIDISTRA — Perhaps not, but Victoria may grow the world's largest hydrangea... Walter Annenberg, a member of the wealthy U.S. publishing company, from Winwood, Pa., visited the Empress 10 days ago and stopped short when he spotted eight magnificent hydrangeas... said horticulturist Annenberg: "I've been to France where they claim they grow the world's largest hydrangeas. But these in Victoria are bigger than anything I've ever seen in France."

Don't expect to see them now... an Empress spokesman says hydrangeas "like people" grow tired and the "world's largest" had to be laid to rest.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Credit Ease Aids New York Trading

The New York market was higher today in response to easing of credit in stock market margin requirements. Trading was moderately active.

Action by the U.S. federal reserve board in cutting margins to 70 per cent from 90 per cent sparked a vigorous rally at the start, but prices slipped back around noon and bounced back in late dealings.

The Toronto market closed higher today in all sections.

AT TORONTO Economic Investment Trust paced winning industrials. Hollinger took a lead among mines with a gain of 1/4 at 21 1/2, with Falconbridge up 1/4 at 29 1/2, but there was a depressing undercurrent as International Nickel lost 1/4 at 51 1/2.

Among western oils, Bailey Seiburn gained 15 cents at $5.10 and Pacific Petroleum was up 10 cents at $8.60.

AT NEW YORK Canadian Pacific and Aluminum Ltd. lost 1/4 apiece among Canadian stocks. International Nickel was off 1/4. McIntyre Porcupine gained 1/4, Dome Mines 1/4, and Granby Mining 1/4.

AT MONTREAL The stock exchange continued on an up and down trend during light trading today.

AT LONDON stocks remained unsettled today and losses were fairly widespread. Blue chips again encountered selling pressure and were generally lower. Dollar stocks eased after Wednesday's fall on Wall Street but several Canadian issues improved.

AT VANCOUVER trading was quiet with little change in prices during the morning. Peace River Pipe moved 1,500 at 31. Giant Mascot traded 5,500 at 25. Cold Lake Pipe sold 400 at $3.25. Silbak moved 1,500 at 43. Torwest traded 2,000 at 9 1/2.

CHILDREN SHOT DOWN STRAYING OVER BORDER

BARBES, France (UPI) — Two French children who strayed across the frontier were wounded by Spanish border guards, police said Wednesday. The children were vacationing at a camp run by a French charity organization in the Pyrenees Hills. The incident occurred Monday. French police said the Spaniards mistook the children for adult border-jumpers and opened fire when they refused to answer their challenge.

Katanga Our Problem Belgium Tells UN

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Belgian authorities told Dag Hammarskjöld Wednesday that the United Nations should keep its hands off Katanga and let Brussels and Leopoldville decide the future of Belgian treaty bases in the Congo.

Breakaway Widens

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (Reuters) — The opposition Cartel Party in breakaway Katanga province walked out of the assembly Wednesday and threatened to set up its own government. Each of the 14 Cartel members present in the assembly stood up before leaving and said their constituents do not support the self-proclaimed independence of Premier Moïse Tshombe's regime from the central government at Leopoldville. Cartel leader Prosper Ilunga Mwamba said the entire opposition was astonished that the Katanga government persisted in its secession. He said his party would support Tshombe's government only if it considers Katanga part of Swiengo.

Premier Gaston Eyskens announced these points in a press conference after the UN secretary-general wound up a six-hour visit to Brussels and flew for a firsthand look at the troubled young African nation.

Eyskens said the problem of Katanga, the rich, secessionist province in which Belgians have heavy investments, is an internal matter to be solved among the Congolese themselves.

Similarly, the Belgian government told Hammarskjöld the two Belgian military bases in the Congo do not concern the UN at present.

On Belgian intervention, the premier said it was and is necessary to "save the lives and physical integrity of Europeans."

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

VANCOUVER — A Vancouver lawyer and a Chinese barber charged with conspiring to bring two Chinese into Canada with false passports were committed for trial here Wednesday.

Lawyer George Edward Gordon, 56, was released on his own recognizance, Tong Suing, 71, was freed on $5,000 bail.

Family Comes Out of Hiding

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Hallas family returned home quietly Wednesday night during a lull in their battle to keep custody of a five-year-old Children's Aid Society ward they raised from infancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hallas went into hiding Tuesday after the society announced it would remove the boy, Bobby, and place him with another family.

Wednesday, Mr. Hallas applied for legal guardianship of the child, who has been with the Hallases since he was nine months old. The Children's Aid Society announced it would not press to have the child returned before a court hearing of the application, set for Aug. 11.

Bobby's mother was Roman Catholic. The Hallases are Protestant. Under Manitoba law, Roman Catholic children can only be adopted by Roman Catholic families, and Protestant children by Protestant families.

Bobby had been placed with the Hallases on a temporary basis while the society sought a permanent home for him. The society has said that the "temporary" period was extended due to difficulty in finding adoptive parents for the boy.

Wednesday night, as the family returned to its north-end home, Mrs. Hallas remarked: "All I want is a little peace and quiet."

She and Mr. Hallas, who have a 10-year-old son of their own, also are caring for two infant wards of the Children's Aid Society.

FISCAL CONFERENCE ENDS

No Promises, But PMs Happy

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — A three-month period of deep thought on federal-provincial fiscal problems begins today for the 11 senior governments of Canada.

They will seek to answer the question, "Where do we go from here?" after current tax-rental agreements expire in March, 1962.

The three-day conference of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and provincial premiers ended Wednesday with a greater degree of personal goodwill among the participants, with one possible exception, than any previous conference of a similar nature.

And to top it all as the most startling aspect of such a conference, the federal government made no commitments, no promises, and no proposals for new tax arrangements. They will be hammered out in the months ahead.

All 10 provincial government leaders left the conference, which will be resumed Oct. 26, with the feeling that they had stated their cases well and with the assurance that their problems will be sympathetically considered.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland maintained, however, that his biggest grievance, while aired in the conference, is not part of Dominion-provincial tax agreement bargaining.

He charged the federal government with unilaterally abrogating a promise of the 1942 terms of union between Newfoundland and Canada. A royal commission finding on Term 29, he said, meant continuing annual grants of $8,000,000 from the federal treasury indefinitely.

The grants expire on the same date as the tax-rental agreements, March 31, 1962. But Finance Minister Fleming told Mr. Smallwood in the conference that the federal government is willing to hear his representations that they should continue or something else take their place thereafter.

As chairman of the conference and leader of the federal government delegation, Mr. Diefenbaker gave the premiers no clear indication of federal government policy for the years after 1963.

NEW PLAN ENVISAGED?

However, the philosophy of Ottawa's approach appeared to be that some new plan of dividing federal and provincial tax rights and responsibilities should be devised within the strict framework of the British North America Act's division of jurisdiction.

It was learned from an authoritative conference source that the federal ministers will seek ways to make the provincial governments more directly responsible for raising their share of the tax money they spend.

Under existing circumstances, the federal government bears the entire burden of raising all the personal income taxes paid in nine provinces and all the corporation and inheritance taxes paid in eight provinces. Quebec imposes a small personal income tax, and Quebec and Ontario impose their own corporation income taxes and succession duties.

"One of the questions to be considered here is how far one government should go in financing the activities of another government," Mr. Diefenbaker said at the outset of the conference. "This is a subject that warrants careful review of both policy and practice in this regard."

Premiers Frost of Ontario, Lesage of Quebec, and Manning of Alberta said the tax-rental agreements have gone too far. They subscribed to the theory — basic in responsible government — that the governments that spend the money should bear the responsibility — and the political repercussions — of raising it in taxes.

The three-day conference, five hours of which were behind closed doors Tuesday, gave rise to a series of further meetings, including:

1. Two meetings of federal and provincial tax experts between now and Oct. 26 to prepare for resumption of the main conference.

2. A meeting of Justice Minister Fulton with the provincial attorneys-general in late September or early October to consider how much agreement there is that Canada's constitution, the British North America Act, should be domiciled in Canada and made amendable by the Canadian Parliament. The 1867 act is a statute of the United Kingdom Parliament.

3. Resumption of the Dominion-provincial fiscal conference for three days starting Oct. 26, with a possibility that it may again be adjourned for a further meeting this year.

4. An interprovincial conference in Quebec City of the 10 premiers, without any federal participation, to discuss provincial problems, to be called before the end of this year by Premier Lesage of Quebec.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that if agreement can be reached on ways to amend the British North America Act in Canada, without going to the British Parliament, he will consider having a bill of rights written into the act as the first Canadian amendment. Meanwhile, he insisted, his bill of rights now before Parliament will continue on its course to becoming a federal statute.

PLAYER VOTE FAVORS TWO ALL-STAR GAMES

NEW YORK (AP)—Players on major league teams have voted, 12 clubs to four, for two all-star baseball games again next year, The Associated Press learned Wednesday.

The players suggested the first be played in San Francisco on Tuesday, July 11, and the second in Boston on Tuesday, Aug. 8.

Two such games were played both this year and last but there was considerable criticism from players, officials and fans this year when both were played within three days.

After the second game, Commissioner Ford C. Frick asked that the players be polled. A portion of the receipts of both games goes to their pension fund.

SPORTS DIARY

SAN FRANCISCO—You're Willie Mays and the fog-horns moan for you. You're better at your sport than any other man now practicing it. But the turbulent mists of Candlestick Park seem to conceal your marvelous achievements from the hostile buffs in the stands. You perform before blind multitudes in San Francisco.

You're still a stranger in Frisco. They treat you as if you just dropped off a bus. It is more of a roadtown than the city whose initials are on your cap. Your popularity fluctuates with every pitch. They seem to be anticipating your failure.

They resented you from the beginning. Your rival is Joe DiMaggio, long gone from baseball. It seemed an insult to their remembrances when you were compared with him. In their opinion, only one centre-fielder ever played in San Francisco.

Joe is one of their own. He started in the Pacific Coast League. New York journalists offended municipal patriotism when they wrote you were the most thrilling man in your business. It is a sophisticated town. They dislike aliens from a metropolis on another ocean telling them what to enjoy.

They would decide that. Show us, they said; prove it. The case was already closed. You never had a chance. Of course, the money's right. You get more wages than any other ballplayer. But that isn't enough. You're one of the last amateurs.

You are a unique man in baseball. You doubt you are the greatest baseball player of this time. It entertains the scholars of the game when the buffs of San Francisco favor Orlando Cepeda over you. You belong with DiMaggio and Ty Cobb. You don't think so. Strike out, and you believe you have disgraced yourself. Get thrown out trying to steal, and you feel you are an impostor.

There was no one to lead you out of your despondency. Leo Durocher was gone. So were Eddie Stanky and Alvin Dark. And Bill Rigney, who was then your manager, had expressed his opinion. You were, Rigney told the baseball reporters, just another player on his team.

It wasn't said to demean you. The manager was attempting to define his team as a unit. All players, to go the old motto of your sport, are one of nine. The individual is the servant of the whole. No man is more important than the group.

But you considered this a rebuke. Durocher never spoke that way. In times of indecision, the manager would tell you how much you were worth to the team. You believed Durocher. He had a positive way.

This guy, the people said of you, is no DiMaggio. You had come with the club from New York. Cepeda was your first star. He is a fine player, but no one in baseball compares with you. You became morose, and your skills were impaired by despair. You told a reporter you wished Leo was back. He would know what to do. This infuriated Rigney. There was a clubhouse meeting in Cincinnati. You were told you had insulted the team.

The club finished third after leading the league until the final 10 days. They tightened up. But you played your game. This season, every one promised, we'll win the pennant. The new park, erected by the city would give you room to show the cynical partisans how far you could go for a fly ball.

No one mentioned the wind. You tried to change your batting style, and hit to right, away from your natural power. The gale stopped fly balls from going into the stands. You led the league going into the All-Star Games which you dominated. Returning to Frisco, you were on a team that had folded. You are still leading the league.

The other players are just putting in time to collect their paycheques. But you scuffle as if every play were an important one. The only game the Giants took from the Dodgers you won with your wrong-field triple. But you're still an intruder in San Francisco.

You didn't put out any more in New York than you do in San Francisco. There is only one way you know how to perform. You give all you have to every play. That isn't enough in San Francisco. You're Willie Mays, and the fog-horns moan for you.

Argo Fans Have Hopes Rote Will Do the Job

TORONTO (CP)—One game doesn't constitute a football season, but Toronto Argonaut fans have high hopes today that their team will vacate the Big Four cellar this year.

With National Football League veteran Tobin Rote at quarterback, Argos showed evidence of strength in whipping Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union 51-31 in an exhibition encounter before 12,692 fans.

Rote, 32, in his first game in Canada, showed he could be the man to end Argos' four-year stay in last place.

During the 32 minutes Rote handled the team he passed for three touchdowns, rambling over from six yards out for another and built up a 37-3 lead at three-quarters time. He sat out the last quarter.

Joe Kapp, 22, Calgary's quarterback ace, was injured during the game's first few minutes but returned to inspire the westerners in the fourth quarter with some great passing.

Kapp tossed two touchdown passes to Bill McKenna and one each to Harvey Wyllie and Bill Barber. Ed Vernes kicked a field goal and converted three times.

SPINOUTS PLAGUE VARLEY

Dick's Having Trouble

Dick Varley is overdue. During the last two seasons, stock car drivers at Western Speedway have become used to seeing diminutive Dick out in front. That is, up until July. Since the start of the month Varley has finished first only once—in the first heat last week.

The man who was everybody's favorite at any meet for two seasons has been taking his lumps like the rest of the wheel jockeys in the Saturday night races at the Langford oval.

He missed the first meet in July, but loaned his car to Bill Foster for the night. Bill spun out in the main event.

Then it was Varley's turn. The following week fans were lifting their eyebrows in wonder as he spun out three times in three races after angling with other cars.

Next week he tried again, and didn't even get past the first heat. He locked wheels with Dave Cooper and ended up with a bent wheel assembly. The trouble continued last week. Although he won the

JAW TO JAW

It's a one-sided argument, as it usually is with umpires, but Pittsburgh infielder Don Hoak gets in some choice phrases in jaw-to-jaw beef with umpire Ed Sudol. Sparkplug of Pirates, Hoak was one of stars at St. Louis Wednesday as Bucs clipped Cardinals, 7-3, and stretched National League lead to one and one-half games. (AP Wirephoto.)

Dick Groat Glue In Pirate Crew

By United Press International

Dick Groat is the latter-day Eddie Stanky—they say he can't run, field or hit—he's just the heart of his team.

Bob Friend, Vern Law, Roberto Clemente and Bob Skinner have pretty much monopolized the headlines for the Pittsburgh Pirates this season but they'd be the first to admit the 29-year-old shortstop is the guy who makes the club click. He's the glue that holds the infield together and the steady rat-tat-tat of his hits has kept Pittsburgh rallies going all season.

Groat demonstrated again how he comes through under pressure Wednesday night when he lashed out three hits, scored three runs and drove in one to lead the Pirates to a 7-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The win enabled the Pirates to sweep a three-game series with the dangerous Cardinals and rebuild their National League lead to 1½ games over the Milwaukee Braves, who suffered a 5-0 loss to the San Francisco Giants.

Los Angeles Dodgers beat Cincinnati Reds, 2-0, and Philadelphia Phillies clipped Chicago Cubs, 7-5, in other National League games. Chicago White Sox ripped Boston Red Sox, 10-4, and Washington Senators scored a 5-1 15-inning victory over Detroit Tigers in American League action.

Groat hasn't hit a single home run this season but his three hits Wednesday night raised his average to .317. He has scored 60 runs and batted in 31. Rivals say he "hits with a sting" and he did just that Wednesday night, contributing a hit to three Pittsburgh scoring innings.

SIXTH SHUTOUT

Jack Sanford, who seems to be "real good or real bad," pitched a four-hitter for his sixth shutout and ninth win behind an eight-hit San Francisco attack that included a two-run double and two singles by Orlando Cepeda. The Giants kayaked Lew Burdette in six innings and tagged him with his sixth defeat against 10 wins.

Bob Allison's 15th inning single broke up a four-hour and 48-minute marathon, also delayed 15 minutes by fog, in Washington. The Tigers scored three runs in the ninth to send the game into overtime after the Senators built a 4-0 early lead with the help of homers by Jim Lemon and Pete Whisenant.

SHAMROCKS PRACTICE

All Junior Shamrock lacrosse players are asked to attend a practice tonight at 8:45 at Stevenson Park.

COMPETING IN Highland Games at Victoria High School Saturday will be Valerie Jerome (above), distaff half of North Vancouver brother-sister duo that will represent Canada in sprint events at Rome Olympics this summer. Fleet Valerie has entered 100-yard dash, broad jump and high jump.

During the 32 minutes Rote handled the team he passed for three touchdowns, rambling over from six yards out for another and built up a 37-3 lead at three-quarters time. He sat out the last quarter.

Joe Kapp, 22, Calgary's quarterback ace, was injured during the game's first few minutes but returned to inspire the westerners in the fourth quarter with some great passing.

Perhaps They Could Try Penalties for Refs, Too

Jay, Severson Set Pace As Vics Thump Nanaimo

Victoria 16, Nanaimo 10

By DOUG PEDEN

There's a section in the lacrosse rule book that provides penalties for players delaying a game and it might be an idea today for the Inter-City Lacrosse League brass to consider adding a sentence for referees holding up the boxia parade.

Actually, the league commission has been trying to find a way to curb time-wasting antics and a special directive was issued to referees and team managers before Wednesday night's game at Memorial Arena. It stated that only the captain and co-captain of each club could ask for explanations of rule interpretations and that any other player questioning or arguing with a referee would be tagged with a penalty.

So what happened? It seemed that just about everybody and his cousin had a turn at debating with referees Wally Henderson and Eric Dickinson, who probably spent more time explaining decisions than in any other game this season. And the duo handed out nary a penalty under the new order.

Second Six-Goal Effort of Season

Jay collected six goals, making it the second time this season he has racked up six tallies in one outing, and added three assists for nine points. Severson, who adds to his all-time league point record every time he hits the scoresheet, also finished with nine points, getting three goals and making plays for six other markers.

Helping not at all in getting the game over in reasonable time was the mocking attitude of several Nanaimo players in the late stages and a 10-minute delay caused when fans showered Nanaimo's Jack Bionda with paper missiles after the league scoring leader had picked up a minor penalty for a crumpling check on Bob McKee.

Hustling most of the way, the Vics jumped into a 3-0 lead and were never headed, although the Hub City crew pulled even, at 5-5, early in the second session.

Later in the period, a minor sentence to Spud Morelli and the intent-to-injure penalties to McVie and MacKay left the Coaltoners short-handed for 15 minutes. That was when the Vics went to town and they were in front 11-5 when the teams were back at equal strength.

Geordie's Work Made It Tougher

Nanaimo eventually sliced the margin to 14-10 with three minutes remaining, but Jackie Wilson nailed down the decision with two quick tallies.

Nanaimo, which went 22 minutes without a goal while the penalty deluge was on, was best served by Don Ashbee, who racked up three goals and a pair of assists.

Making things tougher for the Coaltoners was goalie Geordie Johnson, who played a standout game and turned aside 33 of the 43 shots fired at the Victoria nets.

The result left the Vics with a long-shot, mathematical chance of grabbing the third, and last, playoff position.

This will be the situation when the clubs tangle again Saturday night at Nanaimo: Vics must win all three of their remaining games and Nanaimo must lose its three to keep Victoria in the running. If that's the way it works out, a protested game will be replayed and should Victoria defeat their Island rivals in that one, the clubs would be tied for third place.

Vics trail Nanaimo in the goal average, which will decide the position in the event of a tie.

It's only a 100-to-1 chance that they can make it, but the Vics indicated by their hustle Wednesday that they plan to give it a try.

Writing on Wall For Naval Vets

The handwriting was on the wall for manager Keith Todd and his Naval Veterans today. Officials of the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League announced their play-off picture Tuesday, and the system wasn't designed to please Todd.

The Vets, who pulled out of an 11-game winless streak on Monday, will have to keep on winning regularly for the remainder of the season or they will be on the sidelines when post-season playdowns begin. They are currently bottom team in the league.

The second and third teams will stage a sudden-death semifinal, with the winner meeting the top team in a best-of-five series.

Counting ties that they have yet to make up, Vets have plenty of opportunity to get in on the post-season fun—but they have to win more than they lose from here on in.

They can start Friday against Wakeman Trimble, but it could prove tough if the Contractors keep on the way they were going Wednesday at Royal Athletic Park against Eagles.

The WT men barged into first place with an 8-3 win, mainly on the strength of a seven-run third inning in which they banged out a triple, three doubles and two singles off Barry Menzies. Steve Bishop came in to allow only one hit in relief of Menzies the rest of the way.

PROTEST UPHELD

Mid-Islanders Spurn Ruling

(From Duncan Bureau)

Officials of the Mid-Island All-Stars say that their team will not play Duncan in a best-of-three series to decide the second B.C. berth in the Pony League baseball district tournament at Moses Lake, Wash., next week.

The two teams were ordered to meet to decide runner-up position in the B.C. tournament after Gerwin Jones of Walla Walla, Wash., Pony League director for the Pacific Northwest, upheld a Duncan protest that the schedule in the B.C. tournament at Victoria over the weekend was unfair.

Three of the Mid-Island players have already left for Moses Lake. Others were planning to leave today. Woodley had some other views on the matter. "Victoria was running this tournament. All the protests, according to the rule book, must be ruled on at each game. I can't see Walla Walla overruling Victoria."

An earlier protest by telephone Monday night was ruled invalid by tournament director Frank Coles of Victoria. A second protest was sent by telegram Tuesday morning after three Duncan petitions had been circulated and collected 300 names. The protest was based on the fact that Duncan would have had to play seven games to win the tournament.

Manager Chub Moore of Duncan termed the ruling "a very, very sad occurrence." "The protest was thoroughly justified on the part of the kids. The only thing that's too bad is that to save 15 kids from being hurt, 15 other kids have to be hurt," he said.

Managers of the other teams in the tournament are expected to meet today to discuss the situation.

NEW FOUR-TEAM CONFERENCE

Rockets Get Berth in Wheelchair Loop

Victoria is stepping up in the wheelchair basketball world. Morrison Rockets, who have campaigned in a limited number of exhibition games for two winters, will start their third season of operation as members of the new Pacific Northwest Wheelchair Basketball Conference.

Rockets were granted a berth in the four-team league when the conference held an organizational meeting at Seattle earlier this month.

Seattle's John Ramstead was elected president of the conference, which is planning a 12-game schedule for each club during the first season. Competing against the Rockets for league honors will be Dueck Powergliders of Vancouver and clubs from Tacoma and Seattle, where the wheelchair hoop sport has received an enthusiastic response.

Gordon Korber, manager of Rockets, says that the Victoria club will play its six home games in three weekend series, hosting each of the three rival clubs for two games. The contests will be scheduled on Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons, and Korber hopes the Rockets will be able to work in conjunction with the Victoria and District Basketball Association.

It is expected that league games will start about the end of November. The league champions will compete in the U.S. National tournament in Florida next spring.

Rockets plan to call a meeting in about six weeks to discuss probable problems, which include obtaining use of halls for games and practices, scheduling pre-season exhibition games and arranging for transportation during the season.

One of their main problems is players. At present the club has seven players available and coach Lou McCorkill, who will again be guiding the Rockets with the help of assistant-coach Bob Earl, believes the team should have at least 10 players to insure that the Rockets will be at full strength for all games.

Korber stresses the fact that while paraplegics form the main part of most wheelchair teams, rules stipulate that anyone who has a permanent disability that prevents him from playing normal basketball may play in the new league.

"We have some spare chairs," says Korber, who may be reached by calling EV 4-6960, "what we need most is more players."

ROY HARRIS SAYS

Bob Hits Harder Than Patterson

MONTREAL (UPI)—Heavyweight Robert Cleroux today appeared ready for a crack at the Canadian title after polishing off Texan Roy Harris at 1:21 of the fifth round of a scheduled 10-rounder last night.

The upset victory of the hometown boy was seen by a crowd of 12,530 at Delorimier Stadium and appeared to set the stage for a battle with Canadian champion George Chuvalo of Toronto.

Cleroux, a 22-year-old product of Montreal's amateur ranks, weighed 207 pounds, eight and one-half pounds heavier than Harris.

O.C. CRICKET

Wednesday's close-of-play scores:
At The Oval: South Africans 233 for 4 vs. Surrey.
At Blackpool: Essex 334 for 9 vs. Lancashire.
At Birmingham: Kent 165; Warwickshire 31 for 2.
At Leicester: Leicestershire 172; Yorkshire 71 for no wicket.
At Nottingham: Nottinghamshire 174; Worcestershire 154 for 3.
At Kettering: Northamptonshire 226; Middlesex 89 for 1.
At Chesterfield: Derbyshire 234; Somerset 22 for 1.
At Bourne: Hampshire 174; Sussex 76 for 1.

Up to the time of the knockout, Cleroux was the aggressor and had Harris backpeddling with the exception of the third, when the Texan had the Montrealer bleeding from the nose.

The end came fast when Cleroux unleashed a right cross that nailed Harris flush on the chin. The Cut 'n' Shoot, Tex., fighter reeled backwards and dropped to the canvas. Harris was on one knee at six. He jumped to his feet at 10 and protested that he was able to continue but the fight was over.

The crowd went wild and the Montrealer was carried from the ring on the shoulders of several supporters.

"He has a harder punch than Sonny Liston or Floyd Patterson," Harris said after the fight.

Harris was kayoed by Patterson in the 12th round of a world title fight in 1958. The only other previous knockout he suffered was at the hands of Liston earlier this year.

Cleroux, fighting his 22nd pro fight, now has a record of 20-1-1. Of his 20 victories, 18 of them have been knockouts.

Fraser Gains Tennis Semis

TORONTO (CP)—Favored John Fraser of Victoria Wednesday advanced to the semi-finals of the Ontario junior open tennis championships with a straight-set victory over Tom Williamson of Southampton, Ont.

Fraser defeated his Ontario opponent 6-1, 6-4, to join Claude Savaria of Montreal, Brian Flood of London, Ont., and Peter Wright of London in the semi-final.

Jaunt for Smokies Headache for Loop

NELSON (CP)—A "do-or-die" meeting of the Western International Hockey League has been called Saturday at Trail to decide how to operate while Trail Smoke Eaters are at the world hockey championships next season.

The meeting was put ahead from Aug. 20 because of the rejection by Kimberley voters of a bylaw which would have provided funds for an arena for Kimberley Dynamiters.

The league, operating under one name or another since before the First World War, was relying on the return of the Kimberley team to make up for the loss of Trail.

Smoke Eaters have indicated they will concentrate on training for the championships next season and will not be part of the league.

NOT INTERESTED

Officials of Rossland Warriors and Nelson Maple Leafs have said they are not interested in a two-team circuit.

Nor are they enthusiastic about Trail, league champions last season, entering a substitute team in the league.

It has been suggested that the league enter some form of interlocking schedule with the Okanagan Senior League but some officials feel that would be too expensive.

There is also a possibility of Kimberley playing in the Cranbrook arena until one is built in their home town through local donations.

"We'll play hockey next year one way or another—even if we have to go intermediate," said Cec Hughes, spokesman for the Nelson Club, Sunday.

Ike Angers Scandinavia Socialists

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)—Scandinavian countries bristled today at President Eisenhower's remarks that a friendly nation's socialistic policies had led to drunkenness, suicides and other excesses.

Eisenhower, in a speech to Republicans in Chicago Wednesday, referred to "a fairly friendly European country" which had tried "the experiment of almost complete paternalism."

He said there had been a sharp rise in the suicide rate, "more than twice our drunkenness," and a "lack of moderation" there. He did not identify the country by name.

Swedish defence minister Sven Anderson, who is acting premier during Prime Minister Tage Erlander's vacation, blasted Eisenhower for his remarks.

SOON OVER
"One must be glad that his period as president soon will come to an end if he has said this about Sweden," Anderson said.

In nearby Denmark, where Socialists also control the government, most Danes believed Eisenhower was referring to Sweden. But there was a nagging suspicion that he might have been referring to Denmark.

In Oslo, the Norwegian Socialist government's newspaper Arbeiderbladet produced figures to play down the U.S. president's statements.

"One is tempted to believe that the country Eisenhower refers to . . . does not exist at all," the paper said.

Swedish workers are among the highest paid in Europe. Every person is entitled to a pension at age 67, regardless of income. The nation has an extensive system of social welfare and nearly the entire population is under compulsory health insurance.

Four in Court Following Traffic Check
An RCMP safety lane check point at Sooke last week brought four motorists to court Wednesday charged with minor infractions.

Frederick Joseph Zarelli, Milnes Landing, was fined $10 and $3 costs for driving without a hand brake; Steven Ernest Vowles, Sooke, $10 and $3 costs for driving without a muffler; John David Kendrew, Sooke, $10 for driving without mudflaps, and James George Willis, Sooke, $10 and $3 costs for driving without a muffler.

David Hest, of Sooke, appeared Tuesday as a result of the same check and was fined $10 and $3 costs for operating a trailer without a licence.

CHINA DOLL—Not much larger than a resident of fictional Lilliput, this tiny little girl is undergoing an examination at the University Hospital in Taipei, Formosa. She is eight years old, but just 2 feet 7 inches tall and weighs a mere 13 pounds. She was found in the city seeking alms to support her ailing mother. Dr. Hwang Pa-yea demonstrates that his hand is larger than the girl's head.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

A party of 25 air cadets from the UK will be visiting Victoria Monday when they will spend the day sightseeing and attend a reception at Government House.

The boys are arriving at Vancouver the previous day on a 10-day trip to B.C. They are visiting this country as part of the International Air Cadet Visits Scheme.

Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club's team-of-four tournament at Hoyrood House, Tuesday night, resulted in a tie for first place between Gwen Brawn, Harry Brawn, Douglas Hawkes, George Morgan and Molly Collins, Dore Duprau, Sam Duprau and James Duprau.

Placed third were Laura Tingley, Isobel Kelly, Douglas Tuck and Louis Lindholm. Winners of the Howell Event were: first, Cam Wallace and John Good; second, Hildegarde Rundquist and Edith Bold; third, Margarete Hearn and Evelyn Lamont; fourth, Velma Acres and Hilda Price.

A 29-year-old Victoria woman, Josephine Ash — a blind pensioner — was knocked unconscious Tuesday when struck by a door as she was about to enter a store on Granville Street, Vancouver.

She was taken to hospital suffering concussion.

Reginald W. Medlar, 1251 Pandora, was sentenced in Saanich police court Tuesday to one month in jail and prohibited from driving for one year after he was found guilty of impaired driving July 20.

He had a previous conviction for the same offence in August, 1956, making a jail term mandatory. Magistrate William Ostler said he believed none of the stories of the defence — Medlar and two friends — except that they had been together that night.

ALBERTA CHALLENGES B.C.

Battle for Alaska Route

EDMONTON (CP)—Advantage of an inland route from the United States through Alberta to Alaska were outlined Tuesday for two experts from Washington carrying out a study of possible new links between the U.S. and the new state.

Making the study are Carl L. Junge of Washington, executive director of the Alaska International rail and highway commission and David D. Moore of the Battelle Memorial Institute at Columbus, Ohio.

They attended a meeting with representatives of the province, the city, chambers of commerce, chamber of mines, armed forces, communications, transport companies and other organizations.

Alberta is urging the U.S. to develop existing communication links between the continental United States and Alaska in favor of new routes through the Pacific Northwest states and British Columbia.

Alberta highways minister Gordon Taylor outlined the advantages of existing railways, airline routes, communication networks and highways in Alberta.

He said the existing Alaska Highway offers the shortest and most direct route from the highly industrialized Chicago area to Alaska.

'Sun-Kissed' Capital of B.C.

Victoria was B.C.'s sunniest spot according to the 1959 climate report by the agriculture department.

With 2,198 hours of sunshine recorded at the Gonzales weather office the city was far ahead of Vancouver, which had 1,904 hours.

Victoria had a mean temperature for the entire year of 50 degrees. B.C.'s "hot spot" was Duncan with 52.

Victoria also had far less rain than Vancouver to back up a traditional argument; 1959's total for Gonzales was 32.71 inches. Vancouver airport had 48.79 inches.

The rainiest record was at Ocean Falls, on which was dumped a total of 220.50 inches of precipitation.

The difference in temperature between various Victoria districts is graphically illustrated in the report which shows that the hottest day in July, 1959, was 90 degrees on Bay Street, 89 degrees on Tillicum, 88 at the Pat Bay airport, and 86 on Lansdowne and at Gonzales.

Coldest Victoria day of the year was 15 degrees.

Total snowfall was only 8.1 inches on Bay, but 12.3 at Gonzales.

William Mackie, Victoria's official weather man, explained that the weather office maintains a number of volunteer recording stations across the city.

"We are very grateful to the private citizens who do this work for us without fee," he said.

The different temperatures and rain readings are because of terrain, proximity to water, built up areas, and vegetation, he said.

"They could be different within a mile," said Mr. Mackie.

call that four years ago, Mr. Truman said that Mr. Stevenson could not be elected president. He was right. This time, he suggested on nationwide television that Senator Kennedy is not ready to be president and the country is not ready for him. So there we have it. Whatever Mr. Truman may say in his campaign oratory later, we are grateful for his pre-convention candor.

"Senator Kennedy, of course, disagreed. He modestly announced that, like Abraham Lincoln, he was ready. With further modesty, he then proceeded to associate himself with George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, James Madison, Christopher Columbus, Alexander the Great, and Napoleon. Just about the only kindred spirits he left out were Julius Caesar and Hannibal. Perhaps the Senator omitted Hannibal because he crossed the Alps with a herd of elephants." The elephant is the symbol of the Republican party.

"The question is: Which candidate can best lead the coalition of the free? As to Mr. Kennedy, it is the simple fact that he has had no first-hand experience either in foreign affairs or in government administration.

"He did venture into the field of foreign affairs three years ago briefly. He made a major speech demanding that France surrender Algeria. Fortunately, the French leaders understood that the senator did not speak for the United States. They charitably overlooked his brash invasion of their internal affairs and the historic alliance survived.

Quietly Retired

"As to the senator, he remained unembarrassed by the widespread unfavorable reaction and repeated his statement. He then quietly retired from the field of foreign affairs with a record of no hits, no runs, and two errors.

"By contrast Richard Nixon has served eight years at the heart of the national government. He has been a leader in the National Security Council. He has continuously taken part in cabinet decisions. He has carried out missions of great diplomatic delicacy to 54 nations of the world from Indo-China to Russia.

Thrilled Free World

"He has seen the ugly face of imperialist communism in the riots in Peru and Venezuela and he has faced them with bravery and forbearance which thrilled the free world. If there is any American aside from the President who understands the complex problems of leading the cause of freedom, that man is Richard Nixon," declared Mr. Dewey.

Mr. Dewey said that even as he travelled through the United States calling for peaceful co-existence, Mr. Khrushchev had his spies swarming everywhere, and his spy planes and submarines and electronic ships, too. Mr. Khrushchev had admitted that he knew for years of the U-2's flying over Russia. Then why did he use the U-2 as an excuse to wreck the summit conference? Because he found that the United States had forged the western alliance so firmly that he could not get Berlin in exchange for the illusion of a temporary respite. Americans are not appeasers. They know they cannot buy a temporary peace by trading away the lives and liberties of others.

So Mr. Khrushchev told the world that he would no longer do business with this Republican administration. He announced ominously that he would wait for a chance after election. He used the U-2 flight as his pretext, demanded an apology, destroyed the summit conference and is now threatening the United States with a rain of hydrogen bombs.

Strange Views

Under these circumstances, said Mr. Dewey, "I find the views of some American political leaders to be strange indeed." For example, Mr. Stevenson said that by flying the U-2 over Russia our government had handed Mr. Khrushchev "the crowbar and sledgehammer" with which to wreck the summit meeting. Senator Kennedy went further and said that President Eisenhower should have apologized to Mr. Khrushchev.

"In my opinion, the president of the United States owes no apology to anybody for protecting his country and the free world from another Pearl Harbor, and may we always have that kind of president."

In fact Senator Kennedy never said that Mr. Eisenhower should apologize to Mr. Khrushchev. He said that it would have been wise to express regret for the U-2 flight so close to the summit conference. It is not surprising that truth was the first casualty of Mr. Dewey's speech.

The Manitoba town of Deloraine, 200 miles southwest of Winnipeg, is named after the Scottish hometown of its first postmaster.

DOCKYARD PICNIC 'THE MOST'

Hot Dogs by the Half-Ton

By TONY DICKASON

The largest picnic ever to be held in this area drew a crowd of more than 12,000 persons Wednesday to Royal Roads property where HMC Dockyard personnel and families enjoyed nearly seven hours of sunshine and fun.

It was the second annual picnic held by the Dockyard and attendance was up 5,000 from last year.

The picnic was officially opened at 2:30 p.m. by Dockyard superintendent Commodore John Deane, and amongst guests were Rear Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, and Mrs. Finch-Noyes.

Picknickers consumed a half-ton of hot dogs and more than 10,000 ice cream bars. Special buses were running to the picnic site all afternoon.

Commissionaires clocked in 2,520 cars. There was a traffic jam all around Royal Roads where grounds of the Tri-Service College were thrown open to handle the huge crowd.

One of the highlights of the frolic was a baseball game between the William Head

Penitentiary team and the Dockyard team, the Colwood Alkies.

William Head swamped the opposition 21 to five.

"A real sharp team," said a committee spokesman.

They won the Continental Home Supply Trophy.

There was a midway, run by the shop stewards, gigantic bingo games, horseshoe pitching, a baby contest that drew 100 entries and crowning of Miss Dockyard.

She is Miss Lorraine Atwood whose measurements in a bathing suit outclassed 12 other contestants. She was crowned by last year's winner, Donna Allison.

A hole-in-one contest drew both ardent golfers and "dubs." Winner amongst the men was D. R. Cameron while Stanley Gibbs scored for boys and Elizabeth Allen for the girls.

Raffle winners were Edward Gent, 1816 Adanac, a television set; A. R. Quinn, 206 Montreal, a polaroid camera; A. Francis, a movie camera and projector; W. Allen, Glen Lake, a bicycle and H. L. Collingridge, 407 Obed, a floor polisher. It was quite a day.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Firing of the Central Saanich public works crew and the agreement between the federal government and the municipality for purchase of the Patricia Bay water line will be discussed tonight at 8 in the Saanichton Agricultural Hall by members of the Central Saanich Ratepayers' Association.

Dr. Pauline Bergeff-Gillow of Victoria will present a film and commentary at noon Friday to the Victoria Lions Club on her recent trip to Russia.

She is the author of the controversial book "A Doctor Dares to Tell."

A nomination meeting will be held by Oak Bay Social Crediters at 8 p.m. today in the municipal hall to select a candidate for the forthcoming provincial election.

Mariners in this vicinity are keeping a close watch for a float measuring roughly 30 by 50 feet, and reported by the transport department to be approximately five miles south-east of Victoria breakwater. It is not known how the float came to be adrift, but it was suggested it had broken loose from a tug while being towed.

A concert and film show, arranged by Victoria and District Film Council and sponsored by BCE Company, will be held in Beacon Hill Park Friday at 8:15 p.m. Eileen School of Dancing will feature Hawaiian, ballet, tap, highland, and East Indian dancing. The program will also include the Blue Bird Majorettes, and accordionist Richard Parkinson.

10 BRIEFS TO BE READ ON RACE TRANSFER BID

B.C. Racing Commission was scheduled to hear as many as 10 briefs today opposing the application to transfer 14 days of racing at Sandown near Sidney to Vancouver.

A four-man Sidney contingent headed by motel operator Jim Eaton indicated they would strongly oppose the move sought by Sandown and Exhibition Park owner Bill Randall.

Supporting Eaton were Gray Campbell, director of Sidney Chamber of Commerce, hotelman Larry Quebec, motel operator Doug Frizzell. Appearing for Greater Victoria were George Harknett, A. Taylor Spittal, Robert Shanks, Fred Ball, Ernie Peden and William Hawkins.

Smoke Bylaw To Be Written

The smoke controversy broke out into a hot fire of accusations against waste-burning mills today at a two-hour public meeting.

At its conclusion, Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood promised some 27 private citizens, business and industry representatives that a stiffer anti-smoke bylaw will be drafted and recommended to city council.

Surprisingly, more businessmen than householders bitterly criticized the fly ash sent up large incinerator stacks.

Brunt of the attacks were borne by B.C. Forest Products Ltd. but its sawmill manager, Herbert Barnes, warned that insistence on expensive solutions might drive industry out of Victoria.

E. P. Hudson, of Stewart and Hudson lumber yard next door to the Gorge Road BC FP plant, countered that the fly ash problem has kept new industries from locating in Victoria.

Lloyd McKenzie, a lawyer retained by several Douglas Street tourist business companies, demanded a new bylaw that would be similar to Vancouver's where anti-smoke regulations are three times more stringent than here.

Henry J. Smith, 1004 Catherine, complained that the city was "pampering industry and neglecting its citizens" by not regulating the cinder problem more closely.

"I would say don't pamper industry. This is a tourist town. If they go out we'll get better plants in," he said.

The city's part-time smoke inspector Thomas Walker defended the industries.

"There are two sides to all stories," he said. "There is about 50 tons of wood waste to be disposed of every hour in Victoria, 36 tons at B.C. Forest Products alone."

"There is no other way of disposing of this waste within a reasonable cost except by burning."

He said inefficient burning equipment at BCFP creates a fly ash problem "for every working man, householder and businessman in the city."

"It is tantamount to nothing less than taking your waste, shooting it out a chimney and dumping it on someone else's property," he said. "And it is done at a profit because you get power from the waste-burning boilers and you don't have to truck the waste away."

Most bitter criticism came from Brad Howland of Stewart and Hudson who said the company has tied up as much as $10,000 in cleaning and vacuuming equipment to handle the deposits of fly ash that drop on its lumber yard.

B.C. Forest Products, under the Victoria bylaw, is permitted to discharge 1,300 tons of cinders annually from a single smoke stack over the city, he said.

"It is tantamount to nothing less than taking your waste, shooting it out a chimney and dumping it on someone else's property," he said. "And it is done at a profit because you get power from the waste-burning boilers and you don't have to truck the waste away."

Mr. Barnes said BCFP had started its plant here in 1906 with 25 employees and now had 950 with an annual payroll over $4,000,000.

He said the company spent more than $600,000 since 1950 on equipment which had reduced burnable waste by 40 per cent.

"I think perhaps new legislation may force our industry and other industries into costs we cannot afford and I think

Municipalities Hail Bennett's Loan Fund Plan

Low Interest Rate Vital Necessity

Municipal officials today hailed Premier Bennett's low-cost loan fund proposal to Ottawa.

The premier asked the federal government to set up a special fund for municipalities, school boards and hospitals from which they could borrow at interest rates as low as 2 or 3 per cent.

B. C. would guarantee repayment.

"I support it wholeheartedly," said Saanich Reeve George Chatterton.

"GREAT BENEFIT"

"It would be of great benefit to many municipalities," said Victoria Mayor Percy Scurrah.

"Anything the senior government can do would be wonderful," said George Murdoch, reeve of Oak Bay.

"We've been nattering for a long time to get funds at lower interest rates," said Mr. Murdoch.

Mr. Bennett's proposal at the federal-provincial conference would be "the logical way to do it."

Mr. Murdoch said Oak Bay had to pay interest at five and three-quarter per cent and soon would be paying six per cent.

"The current rate is close to 6½ per cent," said Mr. Chatterton.

"The cost of a project is practically doubled over 25 years."

An alternative plan, he suggested, might be to exempt municipal bond income from income tax, as is done in the U.S.

"This might be justified, but it could create a precedent."

Things are "very difficult" on the financial market now, he said, and any federal aid would be welcome.

Mr. Scurrah said Victoria was working on a pay-as-you-go basis, and not contemplating any big borrowing—"Unless the citizens want us to build a city hall or an auditorium."

But the Bennett proposal would help many other small municipalities.

Scurrah Wants Taxes From B.C.'s Property

Claims Victoria Losing Up to $300,000 a Year

Mayor Percy Scurrah today blasted the provincial government for not paying taxes on some $9 million worth of Victoria property.

"It is an injustice to the taxpayers," he told The Times.

The city is losing, he estimates, between $250,000 and $300,000 a year because the province pays no tax on property it occupies—most of it in the James Bay "precinct" around the parliament buildings.

Mr. Scurrah said the federal government pays about $160,000 a year in taxes on such property as the post office and Belmont buildings.

"We foot the bill," he said. "While we appreciate the provincial payroll in Victoria," said Mr. Scurrah, "at least 50 per cent of the people who work for the government live and shop outside the city."

"We get nothing from them. And we foot the bill."

The government pays nothing for the upkeep of services to its property—"not a dime," said the mayor.

The James Bay "precinct" lies mostly behind the parliament buildings—itself a pretty hefty source of assessment value—and includes much of the property along Douglas, Belleville, Michigan and Oswego Streets, said Mr. Scurrah.

"Eventually the government will own all the property in that area," said the mayor.

"All those taxes will be lost to the city."

"It means the burden will fall on someone else's tax bill."

At present the Capital Improvement District Commission grant totals some $200,000 a year, said Mr. Scurrah.

However, that couldn't be counted as payment in lieu of taxes.

"At least 50 to 60 per cent goes to other municipalities," said Mr. Scurrah.

"It's for beautifying southern Vancouver Island, and I'm all for that."

WEST VAN BOYS' GIRLS' BAND TO PERFORM HERE

If band music is your dish don't plan anything for August 2-3-4.

West Vancouver Boys' and Girls' band, 56 strong, will play in Victoria on those dates.

The band, directed by Clifton Bryson, will give a concert in Beacon Hill Park Aug. 2. Next night they will play at the lacrosse game in Memorial Arena. They conclude their stay with an hour concert at Butchart's Gardens Aug. 4.

The band leaves West Vancouver Friday for performances in the Seattle Seafair Parade and Mardi Gras on the weekend.

Anti-Gambling Drive Goes On

Charges for gambling or bookmaking offences here during July rose to 36 today with appearance in city police court of a Johnson Street store-keeper alleged to have taken horse racing bets.

Douglas Winslip, of Blue Bell Confectionery, 709 Johnson, was charged with keeping premises for the purpose of recording bets and was remanded to Aug. 4 for plea.

He is represented by counsel Edmond St. Jorre. City police in the past few weeks have campaigned against alleged gambling in the city, raiding two premises claimed to be common gaming houses and three alleged to be bookmakers' premises.

Two bookmakers have been fined and the betting house cases, involving three alleged keepers and 30 alleged found-ins, are still before the court.

NO RELIEF

Heat Wave To Continue Over Friday

"Sunny and warm" is the weather forecast for Friday, according to weatherman William Mackie.

"The air cooled off a little after our rain shower Tuesday night, but it is warming up again," he said. "Our maximum temperature Friday will be in the low 80s."

Skies will be clear tonight and the minimum temperature will be 52 degrees, he said.

Winds will be light, freshening in mid-afternoon.

Last Band Concert

Last of the B.C. Electric-sponsored band concerts in the 1960 series will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday in Beacon Hill Park.

Guest soloist will be Michael Rogers.

The program, arranged by Jimmy Miller and the band, will be light opera and contemporary music.

That is a warning that should be taken note of.

H. A. Smith, of Smith Cedar Products, said he was ashamed of the bad record his company had had in producing smoke up to three years ago when it installed a new burner.

"Although we make smoke, I defy anyone to find any ash coming from us," he said. Industry was essential to Victoria and was doing everything possible to alleviate the smoke problem.

He offered to give away free 50 tons of cedar waste every day to anyone who would come to his plant and pick it up.

Sam Sweetnam, of Economy Steam Laundry, said the smoke problem could be solved by expensive equipment.

He suggested government-private co-operation in using wood waste to generate electricity with efficient equipment that would not create a smoke problem.

Cubs Camp Friday

Eighty Wolf Cubs from Metchoin, Sooke, Colwood and North Quadra packs will go into Camp Barnard at Sooke Friday through Aug. 4.

Aug. 3, Wednesday, is visit day.

Swimming, hiking and handicrafts will be among occupations of the Cubs who range in age from 8 to 11.

In charge of the camp will be Cubmaster C. Pike of Metchoin.

There is no reason for a woman to throw up her hands in despair when she glimpses the first little lines at the corners of her eyes or when she sees her first few grey hairs. If the little lines are treated early enough, deep lines can be delayed for a long time. If they are neglected, they will turn into deep lines just as surely as rivulets will carve a deeper course if let alone.

You actually can "iron out" the first little lines at the corners of the eyes by massaging gently along these lines, using your finger in a rotary motion (after you have applied cold cream). You must be faithful with this treatment every night.

There are many factors which lead to lines, the thinning of the fatty deposits between the skin and muscles, facial mannerisms, the general loss of tone, the decrease in the natural oils of the skin. Remember also that good nutrition and exercise contribute to the integrity of all tissues.

Dryness is one of woman's greatest enemies in the fight to prolong youthful appearance. Fight it with regular lubrication of the face and neck. Of course, there are some exceptions. Some women have very oily complexions and need soap and water treatment several times a day and also astringents. But the majority of women must keep their outer coating not only well cleansed but well lubricated.

DEAR ABBY
Dangerous Solution, Honey!
By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old girl who had to walk home. I didn't really "have to"—let's just say "I preferred to."

I went out with this fellow on the recommendation of a friend. She said he was "nice." Well, he took me to a drive-in movie and right away he started to get fresh. When the movie ended, I asked him please to take me home. He had other ideas.

To make a long story short, I got out of the car and my "nice" boy just drove off! I walked awhile and then hooked a ride with a truck driver, who was nice enough to take me right to my door.

My parents were furious. Dad said I took a foolish chance hooking a ride. Yet, I couldn't have walked five miles. What should I have done?

WALKED HOME.

DEAR WALKED HOME: Every girl who dates should carry enough money for a taxi or a telephone call. (This is laughingly called "mad money.") If you haven't a father, mother, friend or relative to call for a ride home, then call the police. Young ladies shouldn't "hook" rides with strangers. Neither should they walk unescorted at night.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widower, 71, and have known a woman for 16 years. She recently lost her husband, whom I had known all those years. She is 56.

I have been sick and she is willing to care for me in my home as a live-in housekeeper. Would people talk? Remember, we are not children.

JUST A WIDOWER.

DEAR JUST: People will talk only if they have reason to believe that you are romantically interested in each other and are living under the same roof without benefit of clergy. What people say doesn't usually bother us unless it happens to be true.

DEAR ABBY: At a neighborhood coffee party one of the girls asked me where I was married. I told her I was married in Tijuana, Mexico, in 1954. She said right in front of everybody, "You aren't legally married!" I could have slapped her face.

We were married in an office, but no words were spoken. We paid the man $22 and signed some papers. Are we legally married or not? This is very important to me, as we have three children.

M.J.K.

DEAR M.J.K.: Take the "piece of paper" to a lawyer and ask him if it is binding in this country. It probably is, but it's best to be on the safe side—especially where there are three children concerned.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S.K.:

I don't blame career girls for resenting the expression "old maid." In my vocabulary there are no "old maids"—just "unclaimed jewels."

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Saucy, Checked Culottes Keep You Cool and Chic
By PENNY SAVER

If you've been trying to make up your mind to invest in some of the saucy culottes that made their mark in the fashion world this year I suggest you take a look at summer charmers that are selling downtown for only $5.98. Cool as a breeze with their softly flaring pants that come just below the knee and give illusion of skirts, culottes are made of tiny checked arnel that can be machine washed, dries quickly and needs little or no ironing. Color combinations include yellow and white checks, mauve and white checks and sophisticated black and white. There's a size range from 12-18.

Scoop neckline at front goes back to a low V at the back that has a wrap-over effect given by the sash that sweeps around to tie at the waist.

Utterly fascinating are playsuits that come in the same material and use similar pant treatment for added coolness. Playsuits are elasticized at waist with a half belt that ties at back. Shirtwaist tops have short, roll-up sleeves and front-buttoned openings extend down several inches below waistline.

Playsuits all sell at $5, whether you're shopping for a size 12, 14, 16 or 18. You can choose from either beige and white check or black and white check.

It's hardly worth bothering to make your own white terry towelling beach jackets when you can get one of the smart ones I've seen selling for $3.99.

These jackets would be so cosy after a swim! Coming in three-quarter length, they have attached hoods and raglan sleeves. Two large patch pockets provide lots of room for carrying sun tan lotion and sun glasses. Slip one of these on, secure with the tie sash that cinches the waist and you'll feel like a million dollars!

To team up with your jacket there are drawstring terry towelling bags, priced at $1.

In the same line are well-cut shorts that have side zipper openings and hidden side pockets. Shorts come in sizes 14 and 16 and sell at $4.

Luxurious Elegance to Keynote Fall Evenings

Never before has an autumn season produced fashions done with such elegance and luxurious feeling. Every season produces some richly beautiful clothes. But this fall, all of the top designers are showing clothes lined, banded or cuffed in fur, glowing in satin or brocade, glittering with jeweled embroidery, rich in texture and fabric. This look of luxury is true both of daytime and evening costumes. Even colors are a total departure from the usual colors of autumn. Intermingled with the blacks, browns and greys are clear turquoise, bright pink, lilac, gold and lime. The warm vintage tones glow with new vibrancy; these claret, plums and amethysts keep good company with the jades and moss greens. In all top collections, silk underscores the subtlety of evening gowns that are really magnificent. In creamy or glowing colors, silk emerges in dresses suitable for royalty. But these are dresses designed for Canadian women for the fall and winter of 1960.

Fall 1960's opulent silks are expressed in the rich colors of precious jewels, as in Jean Derby's lithe dinner costume in vibrant amethyst silk brocade. The short-cropped jacket, which closes at the neckline with a self flower, goes over a silk sheath dress with decollete bodice.

Again, rich gem colors are suggested in Burke-Amey's purple and grey long-torso bodice onto which is gathered a skirt in deep purple. The coat follows the same design, falling dramatically to the floor. Both ensembles illustrated reflect the air of elegance achieved by top North American designers.

Newlyweds to Live on Mainland

Vancouver will be new home for Margaret Joan DeMan and Ray Thomas Bryant, who were married in Metropolitan United Church last Saturday. The groom will enter second-year law studies at University of British Columbia and his bride will resume teaching in West Vancouver.

Rose gladioli and white Esther Reid daisies decorated the church for the double-ring ceremony at which Rev. C. R. McGillivray officiated. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeMan, 1403 Chambers Street, and Councillor James Bryant and Mrs. Bryant, 1180 Esquimalt Road.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin with a bouffant skirt that swept back to a chapel train. Tiny pearls highlighted the lace bodice. A coronet of pearls held the illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of rose-toned roses.

Rose taffeta ballerina-length gowns, styled like the bride's, were worn by matron of honor Mrs. Ian Arnold and bridesmaid Miss Deanna Giese. Ribbon and tulle headpieces and accessories were in tone. They carried bouquets of white roses.

Four-year-old Janice Gray, cousin of the bride, wore a dainty flower-girl dress of white nylon over rose taffeta. She had a matching headband and carried white and rose-toned roses in her tiny basket. Vernon Bryant, brother of the groom, was best man, and ushers were W. A. Higgins and R. D. Rutherford, Organist, Eric Boothroyd, accompanied Mrs. Anne Harris as she sang, "Till We Meet Again."

Receiving guests at a reception in Holyrood House, the bride's mother chose a moss green gown and beige accessories. Corsage was in coral and green shades. Panels of accordion pleats were featured on the light blue lace gown worn by the mother of the groom. She wore blue accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations that toned with the pink in her hat.

Rose-toned roses topped the three-tier wedding cake made by the bride's mother and were added to white roses to complete table decor at the head table. Pink dahlias and Esther Reid daisies decorated guests' tables. Graham Whidden proposed the toast to the bride and R. D. Rutherford was master of ceremonies. A dark blue silk sheath and jacket were worn by the new Mrs. Bryant for a honeymoon trip to Banff. Corsage was of white roses.

Blue and white delphiniums decorated the church. "Lord's Prayer" and "The Twenty-third Psalm" were sung by Carlyle Mayes.

A gown of antique white crystal charm was worn by the bride. It was fashioned on princess lines with short-sleeved bodice featuring a scooped neckline outlined with seed pearls. The floor-length skirt was in train. She wore elbow-length gloves and as her jewelry, a necklace and earring set of pearls, gift of the groom. Her chapel-length veil cascaded from a dainty tiara. She carried a prayer-book topped with phalaenopsis and stephanotis.

Bride was given in marriage by her brother, Patrick Malcolmson.

French blue crystal charm dresses in cocktail length were worn by Mrs. James Shipka, matron of honor, and Miss Anne Malcolmson, bridesmaid. They wore white satin bow bandeaux trimmed with stiffened veiling. White Shasta daisies were in their bouquets.

Receiving guests, mother of the bride, wore a dress of natural silk shantung, accessories in tone and corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Merry wore a willow green ensemble and matching accessories.

Newlyweds will live in Edmonton.

Love Wins Long Fight

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hank Oudman and Jane Mollema were married last weekend in a simple ceremony in suburban Burnaby's Christian Reform Church. Hank was in his wheelchair and Jane sat in a chair beside him. They had waited almost two years for the moment.

In August, 1958, Hank broke his neck when he struck a log after diving into the Fraser River at New Westminster. He was near death for two weeks and was asked who he would like for home. He asked for Jane but there was no money to send her to Canada, so a doctor canvassed the village of Thesigne—where Jane and Hank are from—and raised $700.

With Jane beside him Hank lived, but was told he would never walk again. In three months, however, he was in a wheelchair.

Jane's visit to his visa has been continually renewed on compassionate grounds and she has been allowed to work as a nurse's aid in New Westminster's St. Mary's Hospital.

But neither could remain in Canada unless Hank found a job and became self-supporting and married Jane.

A month ago Hank started work at Lucas Rotax making small parts for planes.

Jane said after the wedding: "We'll be happy. I don't mind the wheelchair. If I didn't love Hank it would be different, but I've loved him ever since he was 16—and someday he may walk again."

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

CHICAGO—Gov. Rockefeller, so the story goes, was travelling in his home state recently when he happened to pick up a copy of "Playboy" Magazine which some correspondent had brought along for cultural purposes.

Believe it or not, the Governor had never seen the magazine before.

His eyes popped as he beheld one of the nude "playmates" and he exclaimed to a reporter, "My heavens, are they allowed to sell things like this in New York State?"

I told this story to Hugh Hefner, the thirty-five-year-old publisher of "Playboy," while sitting around with him in his "Playboy Club," first of many that are to be opened throughout the U.S.

A LITTLE DIFFERENT

(I admit this wasn't exactly the same as being out at the Republican Convention, but, after all, several Republican delegates were there, and I was covering them, see, Boss?)

"You are credited—or discredited—with making nude pictures accepted in all the dentists' and doctors' offices in the land," I said.

"With a little help from Marilyn Monroe and Brigitte Bardot," Hefner smiled.

"You've got so many imitators and you've made nakedness so common... what are you going to publish 10 years from now?" I asked.

Hefner puffed his pipe. "We're going to print girls' X-rays," he said.

Actually, Hefner said, he believes he and his magazine are the counterparts of beatniks—but washed.

"You can be a beatnik without having a beard and a dirty shirt," he said. He and his young crew saw the world was changing and rushed in to help.

MARILYN MONROE
... nice "help"

"If you're going to be realistic," he said, "you have to admit that the principal appeal for the readers of an adult man's magazine is beautiful women."

So he gave them lots of beautiful women and the circulation is now 1,100,000. Somebody somewhere is blasting the magazine every minute and Hefner hopes they keep it up.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Chicago Convention Chatter—Gov. Rockefeller tried to get the Hotel Hilton's luxurious Imperial Suite, but it went to banker "Hap" Flanigan—a member of the Hilton board of directors.... Local gag: Harold Stassen made the biggest convention news—by not announcing his candidacy for anything.

Zsa Zsa Gabor dated wealthy Sidney Barton, first time since she busted their engagement and returned his ring....

Monique Van Vooren impressed producer David Merrick, so she'll have the lead in the London company of "Destiny" after the Las Vegas showing.... Lucille Ball invested $400,000 in her forthcoming Broadway musical, "Wildcat"....

Charles (Revlon) Revson bought a plush Westchester home, commutes to his Manhattan office by seaplane....

EARL'S PEARLS—The honeymoon's over when you realize that everything she says or cooks disagrees with you.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH—Singer Brook Benton writes that in Las Vegas the kids have a great time playing Little League Gin Rummy....

WISH I'D SAID THAT—A diet is something you went off yesterday or are going on tomorrow....

Robt. Q. Lewis says he didn't realize how bad summer TV really was, till he found a couple of kids reading books.... That's early, brother.

MP Plays Proud 'Father'

OTTAWA (CP)—Like a proud papa, Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton told the Commons Wednesday that the whooping crane population has increased by four young birds.

He said he had some "good news" from the Northwest Territories—that four pairs of whooping cranes, a rare bird almost extinct, had been sighted with four young ones.

This brought the known population of the long-legged whoopers to 43 from 39, he said.

His "birth announcement" was greeted by a round of desk-thumping in the Commons.

Circus Manager Denies Charge

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The manager of a trouble-plagued circus playing here Wednesday denied charges by the Vancouver Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that his animals lack proper accommodations.

"The charges are untrue and I don't see how they can make them stand up," said Glen James, manager of the Kelly and Miller circus. "Everyone of our animals has enough room and food."

SPCA director Tom Hughes said in Vancouver that the circus did not provide adequate accommodations. It's the worst case of its kind I've ever seen," Mr. Hughes said. "They had three bears crammed into a cage only six feet square and a hippo was crated in a cage just a little larger than the animal itself."

The circus played in the suburban areas of Burnaby, Richmond and New Westminster last week. While en route to several of the animals crashed near Merritt. Two animals had to be shot, a loss estimated by Mr. James at nearly $35,000.

Truck's 'Live Cargo' Unusual, But Legal

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three Canadian film makers might be able to make use of 20-year-old truck on a downtown street, examined its live cargo and concluded the whole thing was quite legal, if unusual. The SPCA wasn't sure.

The truck contained a live cougar squatting in the rear and a live bear standing on its top.

Driver "Grizzly Joe" Robinson, 27, from Lake Tahoe, Calif., who shared the cab with a big mongrel dog, said he had 50 more animals at home. He used them in movies and was here to see Joe.

Inspectors for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, saying they'd received dozens of calls from residents along the 30-mile route from the border to downtown Vancouver, told Joe he'd have to have a trailer for the bear or take his load back to the U.S.

Joe parked the animals in Stanley Park Zoo for the night and said he'd head home to Lake Tahoe after making a business call in the morning.

Watch That Bee; Could Be Killer

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bees and other insects kill more Americans each year than all poisonous snakes combined, the Journal of the American Medical Association says.

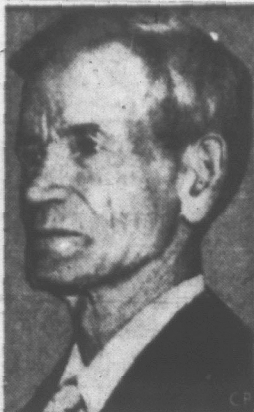

Insect stings may even lie behind fatal heart and heat prostration attacks in summer time, the magazine said.

The worst killers are the honeybee and bumblebee and three wasps — yellow jacket, hornet and polistes—the article quotes Dr. Harry L. Mueller of Boston.

"Most medical authorities are convinced that severe reactions to insect stings are the result of an allergy," the article said. "Severe reactions occur more commonly than is generally supposed."

"In fact," Mueller said, "it is possible that unrecognized cases account for some of the sudden deaths attributed to heart failure and heat prostration in the insect season."

The article warned house-owners and hikers to watch out for bee and wasp nests and to guard against insects through spray repellents. It also said bees and wasps are attracted to dark clothing and to hair oils and perfumes which contain floral odors.

WINS AWARD—Sen. James Gladstone, 73, member of the Blood Tribe and only Indian appointed to the Canadian Senate, has been named winner of the American Indian of the Year Award. Gladstone, who lives in Cardston, Alta., will receive the award from Wyoming Governor Joseph Hickey at the All-American Indian days celebration at Sheridan, Wyo., Aug. 5.

IMPACT OF LUMBER INDUSTRY

Alberni in Top Ten For Average Income

The lumber industry has pushed the Island communities of Alberni and Port Alberni into the top 10 wage-earners in Canada.

Despite the fact that professional men such as doctors earned the most money in Canada in 1958, the Island's lumber centre had an average wage of $4,259 a year, placing eighth in Ottawa's green book of tax statistics released today.

Victoria came in a low 23rd, with an average wage of $4,061.

Rossland-Trail, third with $4,334, and Vancouver, fourth with $4,332, also made the top 10.

Sarnia, Ont., the big steel centre, was top of the list with earnings of $4,618. Last year's leader was Sault Ste. Marie, now second.

Medical doctors and surgeons displaced engineers as the top wage-earners, averaging $15,264. But the doctors paid less taxes, $3,140, than the engineers and architects, who paid $3,232 on an income of $14,260.

Five groups averaged more than $10,000 in 1958. The others were lawyers and notaries, $13,163; dentists, $10,662, and accountants, $10,627.

From the architects there was a falling off more than $4,000 to investors, the next highest paid group. Others listed were: other professionals, $6,248; estates, $5,984; business proprietors, $5,462; salesmen, $5,366; fishermen, $4,982; unclassified, $4,548; $3,771, pensioners, $3,097 and nurses, $2,342.

The number of Canadian taxpayers making more than $100,000 a year totalled 475 in 1958, 22 more than in the previous year.

EIGHT YEARS FOR SPYING

BUDAPEST (Reuters)—A 32-year-old West German taxi driver drew an eight-year sentence for espionage Wednesday after testifying that he was recruited by the United States intelligence service and sent here on a spy mission.

Karoly Heidt, alias Karl Schmidt, said that after U.S. intelligence recruited him in West Germany he was instructed to make contact here with two Hungarians and get them to supply information on rocket-launching sites north of Hungary's Lake Balaton.

WILLINGDON CUPPERS COMING

Gyro Hole-in-One To Help Good Work

Twenty-first annual Gyro Club hole-in-one contest and carnival will be held Aug. 3 to 6 in Royal Athletic Park.

Proceeds will be used for development of Cadboro Bay Park, a Gyro project which has already cost the club $45,000.

Hole-in-one contest and carnival will start at 7:30 p.m. each night excepting Saturday when events get underway at 1:30 p.m.

The contest has proven highly popular and each year there is an average three winners of the $50 prize for scoring on the 75-yard driving range.

Last year there were two winners of the main prize, but there are $15, $10 and $5 prizes for those who get closest to the hole.

The carnival will consist of a "modified" midway with rides for children, games of chance and refreshments booths, staffed by Gyro members and Gyronettes.

Consideration is being given to transporting Willingdon Cup players to the park by helicopter to start the contest and carnival, but details have yet to be worked out.

Child Labor Problem Still Acute in World

GENEVA (Reuters)—Millions of children, some as young as seven or eight years, all over the world are working long hours when they should be at school or at play.

This was disclosed in a report by David A. Morse, director-general of International Labor Organization, which says that no area of social policy seems to be more in need of constructive and co-ordinated national and international action than questions relating to the employment of youth.

"In some parts of the world, working children under 15 years old form a substantial part of the total labor force in agricultural and non-agricultural activities alike," the report says. "The occupations at which they work are subject to little or no control."

The report states that while much has been done this century to eliminate the abuse of child labor in the less-developed countries, the problem is still extensive, acute and difficult to solve.

Children can be found at work in quarries, mines, factories, fields and offices, the report says. Many of the commodities and products which find their way into world markets could bear the stamp "made by children."

Generally speaking, children make up 1 per cent or less of the total labor force in Australia, New Zealand, North America and Western Europe.

In much of Latin America and in some Asian countries, they form between 2 and 10 per cent of the labor force, and in certain Middle East countries and elsewhere, the percentage is still higher.

National and family poverty are the root causes of child labor, said the report.

Lightning Starts New Forest Fires

Thunderstorms across the interior overnight sparked 39 new forest fires and posed a high hazard today.

One of them, at Lac Le Jeune, 30 miles south of Kamloops, is "the most violent ever seen" by assistant district forester Norman McRae.

The Vancouver Island hazard is still high, but there was only one new fire in the last 24 hours, and that was a brief spot blaze near Nanaimo.

More than 4,000 men are fighting today's blazes.

MORE EXPECTED

There are 251 fires burning in the Kamloops district, eight of them caused by overnight lightning.

There are 96 fires burning in the Nelson district, 31 caused by the storms.

"We anticipate more," said a forestry official.

There are 25 fires burning in the Vancouver district, five of them new.

The fire at Lac le Jeune flashed from 750 acres to 3,000 acres today.

"It is so hot that men can get no closer than 500 feet," said the forest service official.

It was crowning overnight and creating its own winds. Backfiring and bombing with sodium bentonite mixture were planned today.

At Allan Creek in the Blue River area bulldozers are still pushing a road through to a 5,000-acre fire. An extra 100 men have been called up by the forest service in the area.

FLYING DIFFICULT

In the Nelson district the bad fire is raging through 10,000 acres of tree farm licence northeast of Cranbrook.

With the temperatures in the mid-eighties, the hazard throughout the interior remains high.

ARMED FORCES AID 'WELCOME' BY FORESTERS

B.C. forestry officials would welcome with open arms more fighting assistance from the armed forces.

Deputy Forests Minister R. G. McKee said today the big need in B.C. is for more helicopters.

"We have the fighters; it's a question of getting them to the fires quickly," he said.

It was suggested Wednesday in Ottawa that the services assist in forest firefighting. Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton said the matter would receive consideration.

The RCAF at present has only two copters on the coast.

They are committed for search and rescue standby.

"We would be delighted," said Mr. McKee, "to get more equipment and helicopters."

With a great number of unemployed in the province, manpower is no problem.

"They are hitch-hiking through the interior to the fires," said Mr. McKee.

"We don't have to conscript—we get volunteers."

The forest service pays 75 cents an hour for what is usually a 16-hour firefighting day.

Fire is at Harrison Lake, north of Vancouver, where 52 men are battling a 4,500-acre blaze. Poor flying conditions are making it hard to move men to local areas.

NIXON

In a post-midnight conference of the party's leaders that lasted two and one-half hours, Nixon picked Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, as his running mate.

It all seemed to work out just as Nixon had planned. Sitting before a television set watching convention antics from his downtown hotel room—with his family by his side—the vice-president seemed a bit overawed at the prospect of trying to step into Eisenhower's shoes. Eisenhower sent him a telegram of congratulations expressing hope he would be able to hand over the reins of office to Nixon next January.

As a youngster, he never dreamed that some day he might be a presidential nominee, Nixon said. He only hoped he would be worthy of Eisenhower's trust. It would be his highest achievement if ever he could emulate Eisenhower's firmness and wisdom.

Then he called about 40 of the party's brass to his side and convinced them that Lodge, product of a wealthy Massachusetts family, would be a suitable vice-presidential nominee.

NO GREAT CAMPAIGNER

Lodge is no great guns as a political campaigner and some Republican governors suggested Nixon look elsewhere, perhaps in the midwest, since farm surpluses undoubtedly would be a great issue in the 1960 fight.

But Nixon showed he is in firm control of the party. He argued the 1960 battle would be waged mainly on U.S. foreign policy—and Lodge has a lot of prestige in this field.

Where Kennedy chose to try to appease Southern dissidents by the choice of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas as his running mate, Nixon bid for eastern internationalist support in both parties with the selection of Lodge.

Lodge is 58, Johnson 51. As an indication of the importance Nixon attaches to foreign affairs, his office is beginning to build him up as a great world leader with huge posters depicting Nixon talking with other famous figures and carrying such captions as: "Nixon leads from strength" ... "America needs Nixon" ... "Britain respects Nixon."

BENNETT

Continued from Page 1 of Social Credit's administration of Alberta finances, he said that when the first Aberhart government took office 25 years ago the province was bankrupt, but it now is meeting its capital expenditures out of current revenue and had reserves of more than $300 million.

Raoul Caouette, Social Credit member of parliament for the Quebec riding of Pontiac in 1946, said that what proved politically possible in Alberta and British Columbia was equally possible elsewhere in Canada.

There were just as many "crackpots" voting Liberal and Conservative in Quebec as there were in Alberta and British Columbia, he said.

The two-day conference will not name a national leader. It will set up the framework of party organization and leave the choice of leader to a later date.

In large measure, its most controversial planks, defence and civil rights, followed suggestions drawn up by Nixon and Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York in a surprise meeting last week.

As if to emphasize the modern aspects of the platform, the Democrats two weeks ago, presented it in a streamlined manner. Charles H. Percy, platform chairman, read excerpts while illustrative movies flashed on two giant screens in the stockyards amphitheatre.

The four-day convention winds up tonight with the vice-presidential nomination and the formal acceptance speeches by Nixon and his running mate.

The safest place for your jewellery and valuable papers is behind the steel doors of a B of M vault. You can rent a B of M Safety Deposit Box for less than two cents a day. Yes, less than two cents daily gives you utmost protection from fire or theft. Rent a B of M Safety Deposit Box before you go away... then relax and enjoy a carefree holiday!

SUMMER COTTAGE TIME IS HERE AGAIN — and along with the fun comes the job of grocery packing. I have put McCormick's VERY THIN SALTINES right at the top of my shopping list — I'm going to take several packages. These new, thinner Saltines are so crispy and tasty they're always a favourite for picnics and snacks. And the wonderful thing about McCormick's Saltines, you don't have to worry about their lasting freshness because they are protected by the Flavour Guard "Inner Pack" of individual quarter pound sections. McCormick's Saltines are my favourite — see if you don't agree.

WHAT IS MORE REFRESHING for a summer meal than the cool, crisp succulence of a fresh, green salad? The answer to that is—a fresh, green salad dressed with MIRACLE WHIP Salad Dressing. You'll delight in its light and lively flavour! It enhances other flavours without overwhelming them. No wonder Miracle Whip is so popular — in fact, so popular that it's always fresh when you buy it! Take my tip and reach for Miracle Whip in the economical 32-ounce size. When buying any product you use constantly, you'll find the large size is always the most economical.

HERE IS GOOD NEWS for hay fever sufferers! ... a letter from a lady in Quebec who writes: "I have suffered for a long time from hay fever in the summer. My eyes get sore, inflamed and itchy when I have an attack of hay fever and I sneeze and blow a great deal. I am thankful to say that recently I have been using RAZ-MAH GREYS and I have much less trouble with irritation in my eyes and don't sneeze or blow so much. I am delighted to recommend RAZ-MAH to other sufferers." Take her tip! If hay fever or asthma make you miserable, do try the relief of RAZ-MAH! For young children: RAZ-MAH Greys Juniors.

Fire-Bomber Pilot Died By 'Own Misjudgment'

(Compiled From CP)

KELOWNA — A coroner's jury said Wednesday that a young Edmonton pilot died in a plane crash last Friday because of his own misjudgment.

Victor Calvin Jackson, 24, a pilot with Airsprays Limited of Wetaskiwin, Alta., and father of four small children, was killed while on a water-bombing mission over a forest fire in interior B.C.

His Stearman biplane crashed in the rugged Gallaghers canyon area 15 miles southeast of Kelowna.

Dr. A. S. Underhill, deputy coroner, told the seven-man jury that Jackson died "unnecessarily" since the blaze he was fighting seemed "under control" at the time of the accident.

Witnesses told the jury the pilot struck a tree with his aircraft after discharging a load of water over the flames. The plane tumbled several hundred feet over a sheer cliff.

Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes Tuesday granted an interim injunction to Willy Martin Nielsen of North Surrey re-

Nielsen said he was hired by the Bay Company (B.C.) Ltd. July 13 but was advised nine days later by the foreman that he would have to get a clearance slip from Local 97 in Vancouver.

Nielsen said Local 97 refused to give him the clearance slip on grounds that he had attended meetings of the breakaway Canadian Ironworkers' Union.

Electricity Sharing Proposed by Douglas

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan said Wednesday the provinces should set up a national power grid—sharing their electricity—to meet soaring power needs and costs.

An agreement to trade electricity could be usefully discussed at an interprovincial conference as proposed by Premier Lesage of Quebec, Mr. Douglas said.

He said he supported the idea of a provincial get-together to discuss not only provincial-federal matters but also items of interest to the provinces alone.

The national power grid, he added, would mean that provinces would not have to carry such a heavy standby source of electricity, thus cutting the costs. Already Manitoba and Saskatchewan were integrating their electrical systems, which put Saskatchewan's massive lignite coal to use generating power.

"It's cheaper to sell power to Manitoba than to sell the coal," he said.

Mr. Douglas said later he was "delighted" with the decision to hold a constitutional conference later in the year.

"I think every Canadian must be embarrassed that the senior member of the Commonwealth can't amend its own constitution."

Don't Hit The System —Bennett

OTTAWA (UPI)—British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett today warned Social Credit party workers that they would "get nowhere" attacking Canada's financial system.

"Don't blame the financial system," Bennett advised. "Just tell the people that the Social Credit party will make it work in their interests. That is what we have done in British Columbia."

"I have no quarrel with the financial system or the people who operate it; they are just as fine people as are to be found in this room. But the fault lies with the federal government — the people who make the rules."

The British Columbia premier spoke to some 100 Social Credit delegates from all 10 provinces who met for a two-day national meeting. Their hotel convention hall was draped optimistically with banners claiming a Social Credit victory in a federal general election expected in 1962.

"Social Credit: Freedom with Security," one banner promised, while another proclaimed: "Social Credit in 1962 or more social debt."

National Leader Solon Low, who was leader of the Social Credit House of Commons group which was wiped out in the 1958 general election, chaired the gathering. The enthusiasm with which he was greeted was dampened when he announced that he would be unavailable to continue in the leadership for the next election campaign.

Low said he took part in the 1958 campaign against his doctor's advice and that he must retire to the ranks. But he said he would continue to work actively for the party.

Low attacked the Mackenzie King Liberals for having "stolen" the basic policies of Social Credit. In his policies of pensions and social payments, Low said, the late Liberal leader really had appropriated and put into practice the national dividend policy of Social Credit.

"He put spending power into the hands of the people; that is exactly what we advocated," Low told the convention.

EASIEST JOB
Bennett said that heading a Social Credit government was "The easiest job in the world."

"You simply have your basic principles and adhere to them, then just go ahead and every day in every way things grow better and better," he said. "At least, that is the way things have been in B.C."

Looking ahead to a prospective British Columbia election, he said that Social Credit wanted to have an opposition, because it would rather have its opposition on the other side of the legislature than in its own party.

MANNING SPEAKER

SOCREDS OUST NEWSMEN
OTTAWA (CP)—The Social Credit national convention today voted unanimously to exclude newspaper reporters from convention discussions on a new constitution and policy statement.

The step occurred without debate at the opening of the second session of the two-day convention.

TWO 40-YEAR-OLD 'PROS'

'Toughest Campaign In History'

CHICAGO (CP)—"This may be the closest political campaign in history," a subdued and humble Richard Nixon told reporters late Wednesday night after a cheering Republican national convention had official on a single perfunctory ballot what long had appeared inevitable.

The convention nominated Nixon to battle Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, picked as the Democratic presidential candidate on the first ballot at Los Angeles two weeks ago. Only a few Southern delegates showed any signs of wavering in the party's display of unity for Nixon.

Convention delegates got around to picking the vice-president by an almost-unanimous vote. It took four hours and nine minutes of hoopla and ceremony for the convention to give Nixon 1,321 votes—666 were named for nomination—and Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona 10 votes. Ten determined Louisiana delegates insisted on voting for Goldwater, a right-winger, after he had withdrawn his name. Afterwards, the convention moved to nominate Nixon by acclamation.

PROFESSIONAL FIGHT

speech is being given great significance by observers at the Republican convention as a sign of the campaign which Republican speakers, if not Mr. Nixon himself, will carry out between now and the voting in November.

Mr. Dewey said that Senator Kennedy has already disappointed his followers. In his first formal address he made a quite regrettable, smart-aleck attack on the president and the vice-president of the United States; while age alone is not an issue, "this irresponsible behavior" makes people wonder whether the senator really is grown up enough to be president.

Documents Faked Say RCMP

MONTREAL (UPI)—The first of a series of arrests in a Chinese immigration racket began here today with detention of two Chinese operators of travel agencies.

RCMP said they had picked up W. Bruce Wong and Henry B. Chan. Both were scheduled for arraignment later today on 12 charges of forgery, perjury and uttering in connection with immigration documents and passport applications.

Wong faced nine charges, three under each classification, and Chan four, two for forgery and two for uttering.

Police said they expected simultaneous arrests would be made in other cities across the country, and that further arrests would be made when the investigation was completed.

Another source indicated that 78 persons, both Chinese and white, had been investigated across the country.

Secret Society 'Like Mafia'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says a Mafia-like organization known as Triad is controlling immigration racketeers that are behind the illegal entry into Canada of thousands of Chinese.

In an Ottawa dispatch the paper says while the organization is not involved in the smuggling of Chinese, it is believed to have taken a substantial slice off the top payments made to immigration racketeers who operated under its protection.

The Sun said the Triad organization turned up in investigations of the racket in Canada and Hong Kong.

"A high source said that Triad agents have been identified in the major Canadian Chinatowns, but that so far no evidence has come to light which would support criminal charges against them."

The organization was an underground revolutionary society in China prior to the overthrow of the Manchurian Dynasty in 1911, the paper says. One of its leaders was Dr. Sun Yat-sen, father of modern China.

It says Dr. Sun ordered Triad disbanded but criminal elements seized control and turned the organization into a Chinese Mafia.

$9,000 for Passports Paid by U.S. Citizen

VANCOUVER (CP)—A retired Sacramento, Calif., businessman has testified he paid $9,000 to a Vancouver man to obtain passports for his two children.

Jew Ock Hing, 48, an American citizen, said he paid the money in three amounts of $3,000 each to Sun Tong, 71, of Vancouver.

He gave the evidence in San Francisco July 14 before Vancouver Magistrate Gordon Scott in a preliminary hearing into conspiracy charges against Sun Tong and lawyer G. E. (Ted) Gordon, 56, of Vancouver.

The two were committed for trial Wednesday on eight counts involving alleged forged documents and illegal entry of Chinese into Canada.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. has assured British authorities they always will be notified in advance of reconnaissance flights by American planes based in the United Kingdom, U.S. officials said today.

'FREE CONGO' CRIES GREET UN CHIEF

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Cries of "long live free Congo" and "we demand a United Congo" greeted Dag Hammarskjöld today on his arrival in Leopoldville for a survey of the infant nation's grave ills.

The United Nations secretary-general found the young republic rapidly being pacified by UN forces but facing acute economic and political problems.

He hurried to Leopoldville from Brussels, where Belgian Premier Gaston Eyskens and other officials bluntly told him to keep hands off Katanga, the rich, secessionist province being policed by Belgian troops. (See page 9.)

Dief Orders Auto-Making Slump Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today a royal commission inquiry into the problems of the Canadian automobile industry, troubled by competition from European imports.

Names of the commissioners and their terms of reference will be announced next week, he told the Commons.

Manufacturers, workers and community leaders have all urged prompt government action to avert a serious crisis in the industry, warning that sagging business, more layoffs and greater unemployment lie ahead for the industry which employs 45,000 persons and has production valued at more than $1,300,000,000 a year.

Remedies they urged ranged from higher duty valuations on foreign cars to tax concessions to encourage overseas automakers to build plants in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the car industry is so important that there should be a comprehensive investigation of its various aspects.

CRIES OF HORROR GREET RETURN OF 'SACK'

'Swimming Pool Has More Shape'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It seems nearly everybody in this glamor-conscious town—from Zsa Zsa Gabor to Bob Hope—is taking a whack at the sack today.

Movietown's reaction to the house of Dior's new fashions—unveiled in Paris, sounded like a depth charge exploding in a kidney-shaped swimming pool.

And, the outraged glamor girls' cry, that's just what the new fashions resemble: Somebody's kidney-shaped swimming pool—only a swimming pool has more shape.

The Dior line—featuring bared knees and non-existent waist and bust lines—also left the male stars as hot as Elvis Presley's guitar.

A completely unscientific poll drew these comments:

Zsa Zsa Gabor—"Nobody in a sack ever caught a man. Of course, I don't think a woman should show everything she has... she should leave some things to the imagination and just let a few friends discover them."

Jerry Lewis—"I'm against any style that makes Marilyn Monroe look like a boy. My personal preference is for dresses that, when a girl walks, it looks like two little boys having a fight under a blanket."

Shirley MacLaine—"It'll be a big year for the farmers—the women will be able to eat anything they want for a year without worrying about their waist line."

Bob Hope—"They ought to put the potatoes back and forget the whole thing. A guy who takes a girl out is entitled to know where things are."

Jayne Mansfield—"Sack dresses are fine for a woman about eight months pregnant."

Jayne, a little more than eight months pregnant, is in a hospital awaiting her baby any day.

It "pears all Nixon wants to do is take the vice out of the vice-presidency."

The dress designers insist that all wimmin have got to do is package the same amount of goods into a shorter sack.

While Dief is investigatin' the auto parts industry he might take a look at his own rear vision mirror.

Oil Business Can Prove Tricky

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

You have to be fleet, fox and fortunate in the oil business. Just ask Ralph Farris, principal in Magna Pipeline, Charter Oil and four other companies. He has been exploring for petroleum in the Gulf Islands as far back as 1948.

They put down a test hole on Saturna Island to the 4,000-foot level. The structural upheaval was so intense they made little progress, geologically, and were left with a dry hole. The test gave them enough data to consider further tests.

Other likely areas were selected. The team went to work and acquired rights on nearly 180,000 acres.

Two of the member companies thought the group should go a step further. Specifically they had eyes for 2,000 acres of Indian reserve land on Salt Spring.

Negotiations were worked out between the companies and the Indians. The latter agreed, through the Indian agent, to make the 2,000 acres available for drilling by auction.

The big day arrived and the five-company group expected to be notified that its bid of $1 per acre had been accepted.

SURPRISING NEWS
Here Mr. Farris takes over: "The phone rang. But not with the news we expected. We were out and Dome Petroleum Ltd.—I don't know where they heard about the auction but they had—was in. Seems they bid $4 per acre which made our bid look sick."

At first, says Mr. Farris, the team of companies felt like kicking themselves where it hurts most.

"But no matter how many times we went over it," says Mr. Farris, "we still felt we couldn't bid more than $1 per acre for wildcat land. That's all it is."

Having made one miscalculation, Mr. Farris took steps to avoid a second. He contacted Dome Petroleum, told them his team had the rights to 180,000 acres of land in the area.

His move paid off. "They didn't agree outright but I think you'll see Dome joining with us in further exploration."

In the second test, the companies plan to go to 8,000 or 9,000 feet under conditions more geologically desirable than the Saturna experiment.

That will have to wait awhile. Mr. Farris, together with Tom Ingledow, plans to spend a week at the British Insulated Industries Callander plant in an attempt to sign a contract for the purchase of unique flexible pipe. Magna proposes to use the pipe in its underwater gas pipeline from the mainland to Vancouver Island.

Public Utilities Commission has given Magna until Oct. 1 to sign the contract. All told the pipeline is a $16,000,000 project.

WORLD'S LARGEST ASPHALT
—Perhaps not, but Victoria may grow the world's largest hydrangea. . . . Walter Annenberg, a member of the wealthy U.S. publishing company, from Winwood, Pa., visited the Empress 10 days ago and stopped short when he spotted eight magnificent hydrangeas. . . . said horticulturist Annenberg: "I've been to France where they claim they grow the world's largest hydrangeas. But these in Victoria are bigger than anything I've ever seen in France."

Don't expect to see them now. . . . an Empress spokesman says hydrangeas "like people" grow tired and the "world's largest" had to be laid to rest.

Credit Ease Aids New York Trading

The New York market was higher today in response to easing of credit in stock market margin requirements. Trading was moderately active.

Action by the U.S. federal reserve board in cutting margins to 70 per cent from 90 per cent sparked a vigorous rally at the start, but prices slipped back around noon.

Industrials managed a small rally amid light trading at Toronto but still moved on the down side.

AT TORONTO Economic Investment Trust paced winning industrials. Hollinger took a lead among miners with a gain of 1/4 at 21 1/2, with Falconbridge up 1/4 at 29 1/2, but there was a depressing undercurrent as International Nickel lost 1/4 at 51 1/2.

Among western oils, Bailey Selburn gained 15 cents at $3.10 and Pacific Petroleum was up 10 cents at $8.60.

AT NEW YORK Canadian Pacific and Aluminum Ltd. lost 1/4 apiece among Canadian stocks. International Nickel was off 1/4. McIntyre Pottery gained 1/4, Dome Mines 1/4, and Granby Mining 1/4.

DOCKYARD PICNIC 'THE MOST'

Hot Dogs by the Half-Ton

By TONY DICKASON

The largest picnic ever to be held in this area drew a crowd of more than 12,000 persons Wednesday to Royal Roads property where HMC Dockyard personnel and families enjoyed nearly seven hours of sunshine and fun.

It was the second annual picnic held by the Dockyard and attendance was up 5,000 from last year.

"The picnic was officially opened at 2.30 p.m. by Dockyard superintendent Commodore John Deane, and amongst guests were Rear Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, and Mrs. Finch-Noyes.

Picnickers consumed a half-ton of hot dogs and more than 10,000 ice cream bars. Special buses were running to the picnic site all afternoon.

Commissionaires clocked in 2,520 cars. There was a traffic jam all around Royal Roads where grounds of the Tri-Services College were thrown open to handle the huge crowd.

One of the highlights of the frolic was a baseball game between the William Head

Penitentiary team and the Dockyard team, the Colwood Alkies.

William Head swamped the opposition 21 to five.

"A real sharp team," said a committee spokesman.

They won the Continental Home Supply Trophy.

There was a midway, run by the shop stewards, gigantic bingo games, horseshoe pitching, a baby contest that drew 100 entries and crowning of Miss Dockyard.

She is Miss Lorraine Atwood whose measurements in a bathing suit outclassed 12 other contestants. She was crowned by last year's winner, Donna Allison.

A hole-in-one contest drew both ardent golfers and "dubs." Winner amongst the men was D. R. Cameron while Stanley Gibbs scored for boys and Elizabeth Allen for the girls.

Raffle winners were Edward Gent, 1816 Adanac, a television set; A. R. Quinn, 206 Montreal, a polaroid camera; A. Francis, a movie camera and projector; W. Allen, Glen Lake, a bicycle and H. Collingridge, 407 Obed, a floor polisher.

It was quite a day.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Firing of the Central Saanich public works crew and the agreement between the federal government and the municipality for purchase of the Patricia Bay water line will be discussed tonight at 8 in the Saanichton Agricultural Hall by members of the Central Saanich Ratepayers' Association.

Dr. Pauline Beregoff-Gillow of Victoria will present a film and commentary at noon Friday to the Victoria Lions Club on her recent trip to Russia.

She is the author of the controversial book "A Doctor Dares to Tell."

A nomination meeting will be held by Oak Bay Social Crediters at 8 p.m. today in the municipal hall to select a candidate for the forthcoming provincial election.

Mariners in this vicinity are keeping a close watch for a float measuring roughly 50 by 50 feet, and reported by the transport department to be approximately five miles south-east of Victoria breakwater. It is not known how the float came to be adrift, but it was suggested it had broken loose from a tug while being towed.

A concert and film show, arranged by Victoria and District Film Council and sponsored by BCE Company, will be held in Beacon Hill Park Friday at 8.15 p.m. Eileen School of Dancing will feature Hawaiian, ballet, tap, highland, and East Indian dancing. The program will also include the Blue Bird Majorettes, and accordionist Richard Parkinson.

B.C. Racing Commission was scheduled to hear as many as 10 briefs today opposing the application to transfer 14 days of racing at Sandown near Sidney to Vancouver.

A four-man Sidney contingent headed by motel operator Jim Eaton indicated they would strongly oppose the move sought by Sandown and Exhibition Park owner Bill Randall.

Supporting Eaton were Gray Campbell, director of Sidney Chamber of Commerce, hotelman Larry Quebec, motel operator Doug Frizzell. Appearing from Greater Victoria were George Harknett, A. Taylor Spittal, Robert Shanks, Fred Ball, Ernie Peden and William Hawkins.

Smoke Bylaw To Be Written

The smoke controversy broke out into a hot fire of accusations against waste-burning mills today at a two-hour public meeting.

At its conclusion, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow promised some 27 private citizens, business and industry representatives that a stiffer anti-smoke bylaw will be drafted and recommended to city council.

Surprisingly, more businessmen than householders bitterly criticized the fly ash sent up large incinerator stacks.

Brent of the attacks were borne by B.C. Forest Products Ltd. but its sawmill manager, Herbert Barnes, warned that insistence on expensive solu-

Problem Up to Creators of Nuisance

He said Mr. Barnes appeared to think that someone else should solve the problem.

"Surely, the people creating the nuisance have some obligation to limit it. What are they doing to lick the problem? There are experts in this field. Have they retained any to study it here?" he asked.

Most bitter criticism came from Brad Howland of Stewart and Hudson who said the company has tied up as much as $10,000 in cleaning and vacuuming equipment to handle the deposits of fly ash that drop on its lumber yard.

B.C. Forest Products, under the Victoria bylaw, is permitted to discharge 1,300 tons of cinders annually from a single smoke stack over the city, he said.

He said inefficient burning equipment at BCFP creates a fly ash problem "for every working man, householder and businessman in the city."

"It is tantamount to nothing less than taking your waste,

Industry Being Kept Away From City

Mr. Walker said there was a large pile usually hanging over the city and admitted it was unsightly and smelly. But he claimed it was not harmful to health and was composed mainly of water vapor. He did not mention fly ash or cinders.

Mr. Barnes said BCFP had started its plant here in 1906 with 25 employees and now had 950 with an annual payroll over $4,000,000.

He said the company spent more than $600,000 since 1950 on equipment which had reduced burnable waste by 40 per cent.

"I think perhaps new legislation may force our industry and other industries into costs we cannot afford and I think

Municipal officials today hailed Premier Bennett's low-cost loan fund proposal to Ottawa.

The premier asked the federal government to set up a special fund for municipalities, school boards and hospitals from which they could borrow at interest rates as low as 2 or 3 per cent.

B.C. would guarantee repayment.

'GREAT BENEFIT'

"It would be of great benefit to many municipalities," said Victoria Mayor Percy Scurrell.

"Anything the senior government can do would be wonderful," said George Murdoch, reeve of Oak Bay.

"We've been battling for a long time to get funds at lower interest rates," said Mr. Murdoch.

Mr. Bennett's proposal at the federal-provincial conference would be "the logical way to do it."

Mr. Murdoch said Oak Bay had to pay interest at five and three-quarter per cent and soon would be paying six per cent.

"The current rate is close to 6 1/2 per cent," said Mr. Chatterton.

"The cost of a project is practically doubled over 25 years."

An alternative plan, he suggested, might be to exempt municipal bond income from income tax, as is done in the U.S.

"This might be justified, but it could create a precedent." Things are "very difficult" on the financial market now, he said, and any federal aid would be welcome.

Mr. Scurrell said Victoria was working on a pay-as-you-go basis, and not contemplating any big borrowing. "Unless the citizens want us to build a city hall or an auditorium."

But the Bennett proposal would help many other small municipalities.

Last Band Concert

Last of the B.C. Electric-sponsored band concerts in the 1960 series will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday in Beacon Hill Park.

Guest soloist will be Michael Rogers.

The program, arranged by Jimmy Miller and the band, will be light opera and contemporary music.

Scurrah Wants Taxes From B.C.'s Property

Claims Victoria Losing Up to $300,000 a Year

Mayor Percy Scurrell today blasted the provincial government for not paying taxes on some $9 million worth of Victoria property.

"It is an injustice to the taxpayers," he told The Times.

The city is losing, he estimates, between $250,000 and $300,000 a year because the province pays no tax on property it occupies—most of it in the James Bay "precinct" around the parliament buildings.

Mr. Scurrell said the federal government pays about $160,000 a year in taxes on such property as the post office and Belmont buildings.

Over Million Bid for B.C. Oil Parcels

There may be a glut of oil on the world market but you could hardly tell it today by the bids of major Canadian and U.S. oil companies at the second quarter provincial government auction of petroleum and natural gas rights.

Shortly after bids opened at 10 a.m. Mines and Petroleum Resources Minister Kenneth Kiernan said there were combined bids in excess of $14 million for wildcat parcels in the hot Fort Nelson area.

Mr. Kiernan attributed the heavy bidding to successful drilling carried on last winter plus the application before the Department of Commercial Transport to build a main transmission line.

Final results of the auction were scheduled to be announced late today.

CHALLENGE BY LIBERAL TURNED DOWN

Two Social Credit candidates today shrugged off a public debate challenge from Liberal MLA George Gregory.

"Our candidates won't lend themselves to helping Mr. Gregory draw a crowd," said Works Minister W.N. Chant.

"Let Mr. Gregory hire his own hall," said MLA Donald Smith.

Mr. Gregory—Wednesday challenged his three Social Credit opponents in Victoria to a debate on their party's right to a "vote of confidence" at the upcoming election.

CEDAR

FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1 1/2" stock in 10 and 12 inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar sawn to show the natural beauty and character of

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, "FOREST" siding is the answer. It has the natural strength and solidity of the building.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its natural thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building.
The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and finish, make principle, makes excellent material for the INSULATION standpoint.

"FOREST" siding represents an ECONOMY to home-builders.
Costing less than most other types of siding the design ensures easy installation and application at less labor cost.

APPLIED?

An easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one nail cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired, "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a stain treatment be used to secure the finished product underneath the stain before it will not show up after information of a vapor barrier.

Don't Hit
—Bennett

OTTAWA (UPI)—British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett today warned Social Credit party workers that they would "get nowhere" attacking Canada's financial system.

"Don't blame the financial system," Bennett advised. "Just tell the people that the Social Credit party will make it work in their interests. That is what we have done in British Columbia."

"I have no quarrel with the financial system or the people who operate it; they are just as fine people as are to be found in this room. But the fault lies with the federal government—the people who make the rules."

The British Columbia premier spoke to some 100 Social Credit delegates from all 10 provinces who met for a two-day national meeting. Their hotel convention hall was draped opaquely with banners claiming a Social Credit victory in a federal general election expected in 1962.

CRIES OF HORROR GREET RETURN OF 'SACK'

'Swimming Pool Has More Shape'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It seems nearly everybody in this glamor-conscious town—from Zsa Zsa Gabor to Bob Hope—is taking a whack at the sack today.

Movietown's reaction to the house of Dior's new fashions—unveiled in Paris, sounded like a depth charge exploding in a kidney-shaped swimming pool.

And the outraged glamor girls' cry: that's just what the new fashions resemble: Somebody's kidney-shaped swimming pool—only a swimming pool has more shape.

The Dior line—featuring bared knees and non-existent waist and bust lines—also left the male stars as hot as Elvis Presley's guitar.

A completely unscientific poll drew these comments: Zsa Zsa Gabor—"Nobody in a sack ever caught a man. Of course, I don't think a woman should show everything she has... she should leave some things to the imagination and just let a few friends discover them."

Jerry Lewis—"I'm against any style that makes Marilyn Monroe look like a boy. My personal preference is for dresses, that, when a girl walks, it looks like two little boys having a fight under a blanket."

Shirley MacLaine—"It'll be a big year for the farmers—the women will be able to eat anything they want for a year without worrying about their waist line."

Bob Hope—"They ought to put the potatoes back and forget the whole thing! A guy who takes a girl out is entitled to know where things are."

Jayne Mansfield—"Sack dresses are fine for a woman about eight months pregnant."

Jayne, a little more than eight months pregnant, is in a hospital awaiting her baby any day.

It "pears all Nixon wants to do is take the vice out of the vice-presidency."

The dress designers insist that all women have got to do is package the same amount of goods into a shorter sack.

While Dior is investigating the auto parts industry he might take a look at his own rear vision mirror.

'FREE CONGO' CRIES
GREET UN CHIEF

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Cries of "long live free Congo" and "we demand a United Congo" greeted Dag Hammarskjöld today as his arrival in Leopoldville for a survey of the infant nation's grave ills.

The United Nations secretary-general found the young republic rapidly being pacified by UN forces but facing acute economic and political problems.

He hurried to Leopoldville from Brussels.

BILL OF RIGHTS

Ottawa Agrees
To 'Strengthening'

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton announced today that the government has agreed to "strengthen" the anti-discriminatory provisions of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's bill of rights.

He made the announcement to a special Commons committee studying the rights legislation following strong appeals by Liberal members for such action.

Paul Martin (L-Essex East) told the committee that teeth should be put into the bill to ensure that there is no discrimination in federal fields of jurisdiction against persons because of race, national origin, religion or sex.

He said he knew of at least eight instances where there had been discrimination against Negroes, including one in Ottawa.

Mr. Fulton said that in the light of representations to the committee by Liberal members, the government has agreed to "strengthen" the bill.

TWO 'PROS' IN THEIR 40s

'Toughest Campaign
In History'

CHICAGO (CP)—"This may be the closest political campaign in history," a subdued and humble Richard Nixon told reporters late Wednesday night after a cheering Republican national convention made official on a single party ballot what long had appeared inevitable.

The convention nominated Nixon to battle Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, picked as the Democratic presidential candidate on the first ballot at Los Angeles two weeks ago. Only a few Southern delegates showed any signs of wavering in the party's display of unity for Nixon.

Convention delegates got around to picking the vice president by an almost-unanimous vote. It took four hours and nine minutes of hoopla and ceremony for the convention to give Nixon 1,321 votes—666 were needed for nomination—and Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona 10 votes. Ten determined Louisiana delegates insisted on voting for Goldwater, a right-winger, after he had withdrawn his name. Afterwards, the convention moved to nominate Nixon by acclamation.

'GREAT GOALS'
—KENNEDY

HYANNISPORT, Mass. (UPI)—Sen. John F. Kennedy today congratulated Vice-President Richard M. Nixon on his nomination as the Republican standard bearer and said that with Henry Cabot Lodge as the GOP running mate, the Democrats would face a vigorous fight in the fall.

"I think both parties have pledged themselves to great goals," Kennedy said in a interview.

Travel Agents
Face Charges

MONTREAL (UPI)—The first of a series of arrests in a Chinese immigration racket began here today with detention of two Chinese operators of travel agencies.

RCMP said they had picked up W. Bruce Wong and Henry Chan. Both were scheduled for arraignment later today on 12 charges of forgery, perjury and uttering in connection with immigration documents and passport applications.

Wong faced nine charges, white, had been investigated three under each classification, and Chan four, two for forgery and two for uttering. Police said they expected simultaneous arrests would be made in other cities across the country, and that further arrests would be made when the investigation was completed.

Another source indicated that 78 persons, both Chinese and white, had been investigated across the country.

Secret Society 'Like Mafia'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says a Mafia-like organization known as Triad is controlling immigration racketeers that are behind the illegal entry into Canada of thousands of Chinese.

In an Ottawa dispatch the paper says while the organization is not involved in the smuggling of Chinese, it is believed to have taken a substantial slice off the top payments made to immigration racketeers who operated under its protection.

The Sun said the Triad organization turned up in investigations of the racket in Canada and Hong Kong.

"A high source said that Triad agents have been identified in the major Canadian Chinatowns, but that so far no evidence has come to light which would support criminal charges against them."

The organization was an underground revolutionary society in China prior to the overthrow of the Manchu Dynasty in 1911, the paper says. One of its leaders was Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, father of modern China.

It says Dr. Sun ordered Triad disbanded but criminal elements seized control and turned the organization into a Chinese Mafia.

Slump Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today a royal commission inquiry into the problems of the Canadian automobile industry, troubled by competition from European imports.

Names of the commissioners and their terms of reference will be announced next week, he told the Commons.

Manufacturers, workers and community leaders have all urged prompt government action to avert a serious crisis in the industry, warning that sagging business, more layoffs and greater unemployment lie ahead for the industry which employs 45,000 persons and has production valued at more than $1,300,000,000 a year.

Remedies they urged ranged from higher duty valuations on foreign cars to tax concessions to encourage overseas automakers to build plants in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the car industry is so important that there should be a comprehensive investigation of its various aspects.

CHICAGO—An angry voice from the past, bitter over defeat, poured scorn on Senator Kennedy Wednesday night in accents of mingled indignation and contempt. It would have been a cruel speech at the very height of a political campaign. It was almost an incredible attack in the middle of a national convention. Only one man—former Governor Thomas Dewey who lost so unexpectedly to Mr. Truman in 1948—could have made it. The speech is being given great significance by observers at the Republican convention as a sign of the campaign which Republican speakers, if not Mr. Nixon himself, will carry out between now and the voting in November.

Mr. Dewey said that Senator Kennedy has already disappointed his followers. In his first formal address he made a quite regrettable, smart-aleck attack on the president and the vice-president of the United States; while age alone is not an issue, "this irresponsible behavior" makes people wonder whether the senator really is grown up enough to be president.

Ever before that speech, Mr. Dewey went on, "you will re-

Lightning Starts New Forest Fires

Thunderstorms across the interior overnight sparked 39 new forest fires and posed a high hazard today.

One of them, at Lac Le Jeune, 30 miles south of Kamloops, is "the most violent ever seen" by assistant district forester Norman McRae.

The Vancouver Island hazard is still high, but there was only one new fire in the last 24 hours, and that was a brief spot blaze near Nanaimo. More than 4,000 men are fighting today's blazes.

MORE EXPECTED

There are 251 fires burning in the Kamloops district, eight of them caused by overnight lightning.

There are 96 fires burning in the Nelson district, 31 caused by the storms.

"We anticipate more," said a forestry official. "There are 25 fires burning in the Vancouver district, five of them new."

The fire at Lac Le Jeune flashed from 750 acres to 3,000 acres today.

"It is so hot that men can get no closer than 500 feet," said the forestry official. "It was crowning overnight and creating its own winds. Backfiring and bombing with sodium benzoate mixture were planned today."

At Allan Creek in the Blue River area bulldozers are still pushing a road through to a 5,000-acre fire. An extra 100 men have been called up for the forest service in the area.

FLYING DIFFICULT

In the Nelson district the bad fire is raging through 10,000 acres of tree farm licence northeast of Cranbrook.

With the temperatures in the mid-eighties, the hazard throughout the interior remains high.

ARMED FORCES AID 'WELCOME' BY FORESTERS

B.C. forestry officials would welcome with open arms more fighting assistance from the armed forces.

Deputy Forests Minister R. G. McKee said today the big need in B.C. is for more helicopters.

"We have the fighters; it's a question of getting them to the fires quickly," he said.

It was suggested Wednesday in Ottawa that the services assist in forest firefighting. Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton said the matter would receive consideration.

The BCAF at present has only two 'copters on the coast.

They are committed for search and rescue standby.

"We would be delighted," said Mr. McKee, "to get more equipment and helicopters." With a great number of unemployed in the province, manpower is no problem.

"They are hitch-hiking through the interior to the fires," said Mr. McKee. "We don't have to conscript—we get volunteers."

The forest service pays 75 cents an hour for what is usually a 16-hour firefighting day.

fire is at Harrison Lake, north of Vancouver, where 52 men are battling a 4,500-acre blaze. Poor flying conditions are making it hard to move men to local areas.

promised, while another proclaimed: "Social Credit in 1962 or more social debt."

National Leader Solon Low, who was leader of the Social Credit House of Commons group which was wiped out in the 1958 general election, chaired the gathering. The enthusiasm with which he was greeted was dampened when he announced that he would be unavailable to continue in the leadership for the next election campaign.

Low said he took part in the 1958 campaign against his doctor's advice and that he must retire to the ranks. But he said he would continue to work actively for the party.

Low attacked the Mackenzie King Liberals for having "stolen" the basic policies of Social Credit. In his policies of pensions and social payments, Low said, the late Liberal leader really had appropriated and put into practice the national dividend policy of Social Credit.

"He put spending power into the hands of the people; that is exactly what we advocated," Low told the convention.

EASIEST JOB

Bennett said that heading a Social Credit government was "the easiest job in the world."

"You simply have your basic principles and adhere to them, then just go ahead and every day in every way things grow better and better," he said. "At least, that is the way things have been in B.C."

Looking ahead to a prospective British Columbia election, he said that Social Credit wanted to have an opposition, because it would rather have its opposition on the other side of the legislature than in its own party.

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta, citing the soundness of Social Credit's administration of Alberta finances, he said that when the first Alberta government took office 25 years ago the province was bankrupt, but it now is meeting its capital expenditures out of current revenue and had reserves of more than $300 million.

Raoul Caouette, Social Credit member of parliament for the Quebec riding of Pontiac in 1946, said that what proved politically possible in Alberta and British Columbia was equally possible elsewhere in Canada.

There were just as many "crackpots" voting Liberal and Conservative in Quebec as there were in Alberta and British Columbia, he said.

The two-day conference will not name a national leader. It will set up the framework of party organization and leave bers the government had drafted an amendment to strengthen the anti-discrimination provisions of the bill."

The amendment would write into the bill a declaration that rights and fundamental freedoms shall be enjoyed by Canadians "without discrimination by reason of race, national origin, religion or sex." It would also give Canadians the right to equality before the law.

Liberal members of the committee proposed an anti-discrimination clause Wednesday but it was rejected by a vote of 7 to 4. Mr. Fulton said the government was unable to accept the amendment in the form in which it was drafted. Today the Liberals submitted four additional amendments.

"MOCKERY"
Mr. Fulton said the Liberal amendments seek to spell out in detail certain rights and freedoms. He said that such particulars should be included in specific federal statutes and not in an over-all bill of rights.

Inclusion in the bill of all the amendments proposed by the Liberals would make a "mockery" of the legislation. Some of the Liberal proposals also invaded provincial fields of jurisdiction he said.

NIXON

Every-time he speaks he somehow gets in a reminder of his famous kitchen debate with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Moscow last year and the stoning he encountered in his Latin America tour a few years ago.

And Wednesday night before the convention exploded in a wild cheering demonstration for Nixon's nomination, Thomas Dewey, twice-defeated Republican presidential nominee, told delegates:

"Richard Nixon has carried heavy responsibilities in shaping the policies which brought victory after victory for freedom in Iran, in Trieste, in Austria, in Guatemala, in Lebanon, in Jordan, in Laos, in Cambodia, in West Berlin, yes, and in Quemoy and Matsu and Formosa."

The real business of the session followed Dewey's speech. Governor Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon used 289 words to place the name of Nixon in nomination.

And then came the wildest bedlam of the Republican convention, lasting 18 minutes. Bands blared. An organ boomed. Delegates yelled and tossed their hats. Signs shook up and down. "Kennedy Kan't Kum Klose," one said.

After the noise and commotion subsided with the help of chairman Charles Halleck's gavel, one speaker after another stepped to the platform to second the nomination.

GOLDWATER NOMINATED
When the noise died away, Governor Paul Fannin of Arizona placed in nomination Senator Goldwater as "the voice of conscience speaking for the conservatives of this nation."

There was an eight-minute demonstration. Waiting for the second speeches to be cleared away, Goldwater marched to the rostrum to decline the honor.

Goldwater told the delegates that despite previous criticism he now felt the platform which the convention had adopted "deserves the support of every American—over the blueprint for socialism presented by the Democrats."

The evening began by nailing down the platform on which Nixon will run. With a shout of aye and only a scattering of noes, the convention approved the 10,000-word document.

In large measure, its most controversial planks, defence and civil rights, followed suggestions drawn up by Nixon and Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York in a surprise meeting last week.

As if to emphasize the most modern aspects of the platform, the Democrats two weeks ago, presented it in a streamlined manner. Charles H. Percy, platform chairman, read excerpts while illustrative movies flashed on two giant screens in the stockyards amphitheatre.

The four-day convention winds up tonight with the vice-presidential nomination and the formal acceptance speeches by Nixon and his running mate.

Italians Flee Quakes
TERNI, Italy (Reuters)—Some 75,000 Italians were camping out in tents and huts around Terni today following more than 200 earthquakes which have shaken the town 60 miles north of Rome during the last two weeks.

U.K. Will Be Told
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. has assured British authorities they always will be notified in advance of reconnaissance flights by American planes based in the United Kingdom, U.S. officials said today.
